The second oldest farm, according to the survey, is one near Rowley and owned by Floyd and R. R. Rosencrans. Their grandfather, first took up a homestead on a quarter section of land on June 21, 1854—93 years ago. His name was Eli Norton, one of the county's first settlers. Mr. Norton built a log cabin on his farm which survived for many years. Both the Rosencrans lived in the cabin during their youth. Mr. Norton hauled the lumber for the cabin all the way from Dubuque. The farm, one and one-half miles northeast of Rowley, is now farmed by Floyd Rosencrans.
