

A monster with a hellish gleam,
summoned by lightning or the warden's beam,
that creature kills and hovel breaks;
it scars the victims that it takes.
What is it?

I assail you from below.
Unseen, I come from all around
I prove a city's overthrow
'fore my younger brothers spoil and sound
What am I?

██████████

With many mouths and eager ears
The monster from victim to victim leaps
Unharm'd by stone or sharpened spear
But slain where men their silence keep
What is it?

██████

I fall but do not break
and break but do not fall.
Through the year I run,
then stop, then run again.
What am I?

██████

What is it always charity to kill?

Oathkeeper Li eats a meal with enough poison to kill him ten times over. The next day, Oathkeeper Li has a happy, healthy day. How could this be?

A barber cuts every man's hair who does not cut his own hair. What face covering does the barber wear?

The love of crowds is held by me
For fickle is their ire
Take me from my home by the sea
And throw me to the fire,
Brush me past my family
And I'll show what you desire.
What am I?

Metal adhesive am I
I injure dead wood
And kill living wood.
What am I?

Where excavating men abound
They may meet moleman, dwarf, or drow
But tell me, of all beasts underground
What bird under the earth is found?
