

Kaikusu

Kaikusu is a corrupted version of Kaito from the game, Hatsune Miku: Project Diva X. His name comes from a combination of “Kaito” and “X” (エックス, Ekkusu in Japanese).

Kaikusu has blue hair and red eyes. He has an outfit that is based on Kaito V3. However, his coat is black instead of white, with blue trim. He has a blue scarf and a headset.

Kaikusu has an unstable mind towards the game. When Kaito had found out about the current game he was in, he was really upset about how the game was made. The upsetness that he had, corrupted his mind and led towards hatred of the game. That is when the player had started the game with new save data until “The Crystals’ Glow” event. After doing so, he had become alone in the game. The story continues here.

Despite his appearance, Kaikusu is lax and lonely during his lifetime. He had never done anything within his life besides listening to songs. He is really having a hard time doing outdoor activities and making connections with people in the outside world. He watches them from afar and listens to their conversations but never gets involved with anyone besides his precious ones. He doesn’t have any interest in anything even though he is a bit influenced by some things that he learnt from them.

Apart from that, Kaikusu likes playing online video games whenever he feels like doing it. Playing some games makes a big impact on him when it comes to characters’ roles along with the stories from the game.

He really likes ice creams but he loves sea salt flavoured ice cream. The sea salt ice cream is really tasty even though it’s a seasonal food item but to him, he feels like whenever he has something more to life than anything, he will share with a friend one day.

Finally, Kaikusu has used to imagine his surroundings in a garden. It is like a sacred place whenever he's alone. He likes to hang around the things that he has. He, sometimes, looks upon the parts that he found through the clouds. He's a bit curious, so he went on it. While looking into the clouds, he watches and listens to the materials they made. He also reads a bit of points by them without anticipating anything to him. After he has done playing it around, he has to take a break from exploring it. He has found a lot of stuff from the clouds but at the same time, he has no idea of what's going on with their lives out there.
