

Private Lesson Information

Private lessons are a wonderfully valuable experience for all student musicians, providing the opportunity for the student to receive specific instruction and feedback tailored to their individual level of skill and knowledge. An experience for students at every level and age, this one-on-one time with an expert on your child's instrument is a pivotal part of their musical growth and is something not to miss. The private teachers listed below can serve as a starting point for finding a private lesson instructor. Families may also find a teacher off of this list, and there are local music schools in the area with a great team of private instructors.

Please review these points regarding private lessons:

- Parents should review the listing below of approved private lesson instructors.
- Find a teacher/teachers you are interested in working with, emailing and contacting them via phone inquiring about lesson scheduling and rate of pay.
- Phone is the best way to communicate.
- Parents, please be sure you and your child are aware of the lesson instructor's cancellation policy.
- Lessons are taught either at KHS, the lesson instructor's home, or in your home, depending on the teacher's schedule.
- Students should practice and prepare for each lesson, focusing on the specific items their private lesson teacher is working to improve and develop.
- Lessons should focus primarily on improving music fundamentals, posture and position, etudes, scales, solo literature, ensemble literature as applicable, and region music (May – September).
