

once upon a time... there was a beautiful princess named hwang hyunjin. the nation raved about his luscious long locks, his amazing dancing skills, his unceasing work ethic, and his mysterious abs. he grew up in the land of JYPE where King Park JinYoung ruled with a kind and benevolent heart to all his subjects. but the King had been widowed long ago and when he decided to take a new wife, he chose the young and fair...TWICE.

TWICE didnt like hyunjin's beautiful flowing golden hair as they believed that their hair was the most superior. so... they began to plot to get rid of poor hyunjin. first they made him cook all the cafeteria meals at the JYPE organic cafeteria, hyunjin spent hours slaving away at organic meals(?). and even though he was exhausted by the end of the day, hyunjin still spent time to practice his dancing. finally twice had enough.they told King JYP that Hyunjin was hogging all the practice rooms to practice in order to turn the King against poor Hyunjin and sought to kick him out of the building once and for all.

they sent Got7's Jinyoung to ~do the deed~ and because Hyunjin idolised him so thus he would trust him. but just when hyunjin had his back turned and Jinyoung was ready to strike, hyunjin turned around and administered a wink so lethal, it almost killed Jinyoung... Jinyoung was so stunned by the action and so in awe of Hyunjin that he let him go. Hyunjin ran away from the JYPE building as fast as he could and Jinyoung turned to look for another 5'10 noodle with blond hair that he could present to TWICE. meanwhile, hyunjin ran and ran and ran and ran, screaming at the top of his lungs because thats probably what he'd do.

he ran so fast that his legs carried him across the water and until he found a little cottage house. the sign outside it said australia, but he was too preoccupied to notice, only seeing the door, which stood slightly ajar and seemed to call out to him to go in. going inside, he found a very untidy house, lots of stuffed animals, 3 fridges, a lot of brownies, 7 very small beds, and not a single chocolate chip cookie. hyunjin's only thought was "is this house owned by children? stray children? ~stray kids?~ but he fell asleep on the one bed that was actually tidy, with its clothes folded next to the bed instead of strewn all around it, his legs hanging off the side of the bed because it was too small and he was too tired to try and push the beds around to make them work for him. it just be like that 😊. while he was fast asleep, the actual owners of the house, decided to come home from a recording session. DocChan saw that the door to their house was open and knew at once something was fishy. he called out to the others who upon going into their little home, discovered that a very beautiful, very tall, and very asleep boi was lying in SeungHappy's bed. when HyunWhite woke up from his well deserved nap, he saw the curious faces of 7 smol gnomes staring at him in curiosity....