COLLABORATORS : Collaborators who are official artist collaborators in creating art submitted into The Lunaprise Mission who wish to have their own badge and identification can apply separately but will share the badge number issued to the other artists in the same art collection and should indicate that in the " notes" section of the order. For instance, a singer is attached to a song done by a producer for a film. The 3 parties will all share the same new unique ID Number linked to this particular art artifact. Principal collaborators who have ownership rights or publishing rights in the property are the only ones considered as actual official collaborators. Work for hire arrangements are not considered collaborators.

The artist identification authentication and badge is a revocable license by Space Blue and important qualification to validate with your potential community and collectors that your artwork has been accepted on the Lunaprise Mission. It's based on building a trusted community for all artist, collectors and buyers of art in The Lunaprise mission.

You may have added to the Artist ID the name of the collections and specific artwork accepted on the Lunaprise mission at the time of your application but no other collection names can be added and no other artwork besides that had not been designated at the time of application to The Lunaprise mission.
