Honors English: Digital Portfolio

Website URL (please hyperlink):

Please copy and paste the URL for your website into this box. DO NOT enter a URL to the website creator (like Weebly.com). I need the URL to your specific website if I am going to assess it. Remember your site needs to be published and viewable to everyone on the Internet.

To do:

- Please complete the information above (highlighted sections).
- Title this document properly
 - Class Name - Last Name - Digital Portfolio Feedback Form
- Complete the English Final - Digital Portfolio Submission Form and provide the link to this document, so I can attach voice or written comments (depending on your preference) to this document.

Important Note: To access your voice comments, click on the grey “Comments” button in the upper right hand corner of this page. They will look like the screenshot below and contain a hyperlinked URL that you can click on to listen to my feedback.

Digital Portfolio

Due: May 15th

(*Early submits will be eligible for extra credit!)

This year has flown by! The work you have done spans a wide range of written and digital pieces. To demonstrate your growth and development as a student, you will compile an impressive collection of work into a digital portfolio. This portfolio should demonstrate extensive revision and reflection. It is important that you begin to establish a digital footprint that reflects your abilities as a student and potential college or job applicant.

I want to be WOWed!

You will create a website to be the home of your digital portfolio. You can select the website creator that you are most comfortable with:

- Google sites
- Wix
- Weebly
- Other?

This website should represent the wonderfully, wacky person you are with graphics, images and colors that you identify with. Your personal style and aesthetic should add to the originality of the site, but it should not distract from the content. For example, you will want to keep the font style easy to read and consistent throughout the site.

Contents:

Digital Writing

You will need a minimum of one piece for each of the following genres for writing:

- Argument writing
- Informational writing
- Business Letter/Cover Letter (from Career Exploration)
- Resume
- Strongest Holocaust Diary Entry
- Most impressive vocabulary story
- Most impression online discussion contribution
- Most impressive StudySync writing assignment

If you forgot all the writing you have done, see the list at the bottom of this sheet!*

Digital Pieces

You will also need a minimum of three digital pieces:

- Digital Narrative - Original Tale for Canterbury Tales
- Infographic - 1st semester core final
- Expert Group Presentations for Of Mice and Men
- iMotion HD Globe Construction

Artwork

One page of your website must be dedicated to sharing photos of your artwork.

Ideas:

- Photos of acting
- Globe Theatre
- I Never Saw Another Butterfly Activity

- SSR project visual
- Instagram sensory detail pics

Editing and Revising

Each piece must reflect your abilities as a writer and student NOW. This means you will need to edit and revise EACH piece to reflect growth and development.

Reflective Blog Posts

As you work, you will need to post a series of 5 separate (approximately 1 per week) blog posts spanning the length of your work on this project. Each blog post should reflect on the work you have done on your portfolio to that point.

- What aspects of your writing or work have dramatically improved?
- Which pieces were the most enjoyable or most challenging to work on?
- What elements were missing from previous pieces that you were able to add?
- Can you see your growth and development as you work on older pieces?

I'm interested in quality, not quantity on these blogs. You are welcome to include images and pictures if you want.

Note: Your 5th and final blog should be a reflection on this class.*

Details

- Use individual tabs with labels to separate your work.
- The best digital portfolios will pair written pieces with graphics and images to depth.
