

Quote:

"The necessities of life are a roof over your head, clothes on your back, food on your table. Everything else are luxuries. Look at me. I have necessities, a family that loves me and my first new car to drive."

John David Corum as remembered by Mary Lodosia Helton

In this complex game of chess, played out every day between the Light and the Dark, nothing is predictable. The future is only a set of probabilities, and bizarre and strange outcomes happen all the time. This isn't a game you can plan for completely, like in any sport, there are a lot of decisions made on the fly in response to chance events (your star player receiving a career ending injury) or moves the opponent makes. You go in with a solid game plan and then you see what happens. The story of the Messiah is no exception to this rule of the game. A lot of planning takes place for an event where the culmination is the grand battle between Light and Dark for the future of the Universe. God doesn't know everything, He knows what was (of the Light, the Dark hidden from his purview) and he is extremely adept at working the probabilities and rethinking his moves when events don't go to plan. The plan for the second Messiah was laid out 13,000 years ago after the fall of Atlantis, the soul spark was chosen for the mission. Events played out and the plan was tweaked as the story moved along. The family blood line was chosen around 100 years ago.

Great Grandpa Charles Helton, original family name Corbin, had three sons, the first born biological and the next two adopted. Before the birth of his second biological, and fourth son, Reed Charles on September, 28, 1927, he changed the family name to Helton, a divine family name chosen for the Messiah. Great Grandpa Helton adopted one more son after Reed. Times were difficult during the Great Depression, especially in the back hills of Tennessee, and giving birth was a risky business for a woman. The Helton family needed a lot of helping hands, but Grandma Cordie Helton wasn't so keen on the baby making business. Reed grew up during hard times, but his Father hoped that a change in the family name might change the family fortunes (a whisper from the Angels in his dream time also helped convince him). Reed didn't grow up with much, but he had family and he was close with his brothers. In his teenage years, the boys did a lot of fishing, sometimes the unconventional kind, using dynamite they'd acquired from a mining operation to "stun" the fish. On one of their adventures, they'd come across an Indian burial site. Being young and uninformed of the spiritual nature of the world, Reed removed some stones from one of the graves. One of those chance events that God couldn't account for. Along with the family name, Reed brought a curse into the family.

Great Grandma (Ty Ty/Big Ty) was an amazing woman. Born at the turn of the century in Alabama, on March 29, 1906, hers was a hard life. Jessie May Rice had four brothers and two sisters. She was the youngest but she was also very special. Jessie May was an Angel soul sent directly from heaven and her Earthly vehicle contained the Royal bloodline needed for the future birth of the Messiah. Jessie May's Great Grandmother's Great Grandmother was a Chakta Indian princess with a mountain named after her in Alabama. Her family lineage also carried Royal bloodlines from Germany, Spain, the Netherlands, and Italy. She picked cotton with her mother as a small girl and the family worked very hard to find some success in life. They were fortunate and were able to buy one of the early model T Ford cars which she used to ride along in with her brothers to go into town or visit the neighbors. There were many accidents, broken arms from the starter kicking back on the Model T, chainsaw accidents, and siblings dying when they wrecked the Ford, but Jessie May was watched over by the Angels and she survived the trying times. Jessie May met John David Corum, born August 4, 1908, when she was a young lady in Alabama and they fell in love. Great Grandpa John was a good man with a big heart and he came from a good family with a little money. John was a carpenter and very skilled with his hands. John was an old Earth soul having spent many incarnations on Earth. They were a very happy couple. Jessie May gave birth to their only daughter, Mary Lodosia (Ty, Little Ty), soon after marriage, November 30, 1930. When World War II broke out, John moved the family to Oakridge, Tennessee. John built the housing for the Manhattan Project and the family lived on the base. Mary was part of the Oak Ridge High School graduating class of 1949.

Mary Lodosia Corum met Reed Charles Helton in High School. Reed enlisted in the Army on January 16, 1946 and was sent off to Africa as part of the Big Red 1. They married September, 30, 1950 after his return from the war and moved to Dayton, Ohio, after Great Grandpa and Grandma Corum relocated. Reed went to work for the NCR Corporation and John worked on the Wright Patterson Airforce Base doing carpentry. On March, 17, 1956, David Reed Helton, their only son, was born. David was a special boy who grew up enjoying the outdoors, going camping and fishing with his father as often as they could get away. They'd often take long camping trips to Canada and always had stories of the Bears hauling off with their camping supplies. The Helton family didn't have much, but what they did have was a passion for life and family and they made the most of it. When David was ten years old, it was time for the original soul that came here solely to prep his personality for life ahead to go back home to the other side of the veil. David's life plan involved a switch in souls, not a very common practice during David's time, but his generation was the beginning of the first wave of Starseeds heading to planet Earth for the great culmination during the baby boom years after World War II. This was the first wave of soldiers as ground troops for the Light. Souls are sparks that are separated from an oversoul for the purposes of incarnation or other learning opportunity by the oversoul. When a new soul is born, it's level one and begins its learning process in school on the other side of the veil. Starseeds are soul sparks created from an already existing soul spark, usually a very old soul with a lot of experience, typically gained on another planet. In the case of most of the first wavers, these are battle hardened souls that have been Starseed advanced ground troops, the Marines, in other wars with the Dark. David's Starseed origins are locked in the "book" for the protection of himself and his star people, but his Starseed is an 82 level spark from a race working with the Federation of Light. David's personality remembered his life before age 10, but his new soul was starting fresh after its incarnation. Despite all of the preparation prior to incarnation, Earth is a difficult place, even for old souls, and it was an adjustment for his spark. David's Starseed soul had a lot of experience, but this was his first time on Earth. Earth is a very tough school. A school of forgetting and trying to remember. David's Starseed knew its mission and had prepared well, but the separation created by the veil and the 3D nature of life in a human vehicle on a planet controlled by the Dark and gripped by fear in the 60s made for a difficult road ahead for David's Starseed soul. David's plan was to meet a German woman when he was in his late 20's and his firstborn and only son would be Scott David, but the curse brought into the family a generation before changed everything for David.

There are twelve physical planes of existence, referred to as 1D thru 12D. Everything is energy and energy has a vibration. The frequency at which something vibrates largely determines its Dimensional orientation in the physical planes. The 1st Dimension is the consciousness level of the basic elements of the physical world (Earth, Water, Air, Fire). The 2nd Dimension consists of entities like plants and animals that are a collective consciousness. This is also where the elemental creatures like the Fairies and the Elves fled from humanity to hide when the world turned Dark. The 3rd Dimension is the physical world humans currently inhabit and includes the experience of emotions. We refer to humanity as 3D because this is the dimension in which they largely exist. A veil exists between the 3rd Dimension and Source that prevents direct communication. The 4th Dimension is the Astral Plane. This is the jailhouse of the Light. This is where Dark souls are sent when they are captured by the Light to be later dealt with by the Angels. This is also where souls get trapped that decide they like the human experience a little too much and don't want to return home (where the ghosts hang out). The 4th Dimension is a Dark and dangerous place full of trapped souls who will likely never return home to source. There are only two ways out of the astral planes, Angelic rehabilitation (very low success rates), or the metaphorical sword of Michael, the wipe and reset of the soul to scratch by the eternal flame of Light. The 5th Dimension is the next level of progression for any sentient race and their host planet. The collective consciousness of any central host species, like humans, is directly tied to their host planet. The two evolve together and are tied together, energetically, one affecting the other. What Humans do to their planet, they do to themselves. As long as humans resist their evolution by remaining in the 3D, so too will our Mother Earth remain in the same energetic state. The 5th Dimension is the next vibratory state, where more Love and Light exists and there is no dis-ease. As species and planets continue to evolve, they will continue to move up through the vibratory levels. The higher dimensions above the 5th being energetic in nature (energy beings), each dimension becoming more Love and more Light as you go up. Beings of higher dimensional frequencies can lower their vibrations to exist in the lower dimensions and beings in the lower dimensions can under certain circumstances raise their vibrational states to cross into the higher dimensions while still existing in their own dimensions. When a being existing in the 3rd Dimension is able to raise their vibrational state to the 5th Dimensional frequency or above, we call this Ascension. The 5th Dimensional state also allows the being access across the veil, to reach back to Source and to reconnect with their oversoul. Descent of a soul into the 3D is the great forgetting and Ascension to 5D is the great remembering.

Sharon Ann Oldiges was the second to last child of three brothers and two sisters, born January 28, 1956. Her parents immigrated from Germany as Hitler rose to power prior to World War II.

Sharon's was a medium aged Earth soul, having incarnated on Earth around 100 times during the life of her soul. Some time after the fall of Atlantis her oversoul turned Dark, something her soul was unaware had occurred. Prior to her most recent incarnation on Earth, Sharon's soul was sent to a boot camp for the Dark to prepare her for the mission ahead. In this camp, Sharon's soul was reconditioned. It was a tough school training only a handful of select souls. Sharon's soul didn't know this was a Dark camp and she did her best to pass her mission. She was reprogrammed to work for rewards no matter what the task at hand. She soon learned that if she did a good job, whatever it was, she was rewarded. She'd bring this training into her next lifetime. The Dark aren't usually privy to the mission of a Starseed incarnate soul, but they always know that where there is a Starseed, there is an important mission for the Light. When the Dark noticed David's Starseed pop onto the planet, Sharon's oversoul was activated and her soul given its new plans and mission. The family curse allowed her to alter David's life plan. Sharon found David in highschool and David's soul knowing he was supposed to marry a German girl, being cut off by the veil, having become very 3D, and his soul running mission on his own guidance, believed the timeline had been moved up and this was the German woman he was destined to meet. David and Sharon married just after graduation from highschool. When David was 19 and Sharon was 18, Sharon became pregnant with David's first born son. They were soon drawn to pick up roots and move to Denver, Colorado. The birth of their son would be Divine and the location of his birth was very important.

Scott David Helton, first son of David, was born at Swedish Hospital in Denver, Colorado, at 3:21PM on July 14th, 1976. He was a healthy, blonde haired, blue eyed boy weighing 7 pounds and 11 ounces. He was 10 days late, the doctors predicting a July 4th birth. In divine law, the Messiah must always be the first born son, so when Scott was born, though early and not on plan, his soul and his Starseed's plans were activated. There was no turning back for the Light, the Messiah was now on Earth. There were three Archangels in attendance of the birth, hovering over the bed. Most noteworthy was Michael, a permanent member of the council responsible for Earth, and a very close friend to God. Scott's birth soul was a very old Earth soul, having been on Earth since the Lemurian times and through 1000's of incarnations. Scott's soul was given the honor of training his personality for the later incarnation of the Starseed that would replace him. Scott's soul knew how to be human well and he was well prepared for his mission, but the time was too soon. Since the plans had changed, he was here early, in a time period he had little time to prepare for. When Scott was two days old, his family checked him out of the hospital and they were guided by the Angels to drive him up Pike's Peak to the very top so that he would experience the energies of the mountains and to prepare him for the energy work he will one day be doing. Mary and Reed were in Denver for Scott's birth. Scott's blue complexion from the lack of oxygen on the mountain made Mary very concerned, but Scott's soul was thrilled. It felt so good to be in the mountains, the energy was incredible.

The Dark weren't done with their plotting. They didn't yet know who Scott was, but they knew that he was born to David and would play some important role for the Light. The Light were up to something. When Scott was two months old an accident was arranged. Sharon was driving home in Denver in their 1970 Rambler. It was a dark snowy night. There were few driving laws and fewer safety features in automobiles at the time. Scott was riding next to his mother, strapped into an open baby carrier, unfastened to the passenger seat. Conditions weren't bad for Colorado, just a little snow coming down, and Sharon was driving the speed limit. At this moment, the Dark took control of a driver on the other side of the two-lane road and the driver veered his vehicle directly into Sharon's lane. There was no time to react and the two cars collided head on. The Light watched over Scott. Angels intervened and ensured his carrier glided gently to the safety of the floor under the passenger dashboard. He was completely unharmed. The Rambler was a sturdy vehicle, built for the mountains, but not for high speed head on collisions. The vehicle flipped several times and was completely totalled. Sharon had her seatbelt on which probably saved her life, but the engine block was crushed all the way into the drivers seat and Sharon's leg was crushed and lodged between the door and the engine block. When the paramedics and firemen arrived, they were unsure whether they'd find any survivors. They found little Scott, safe and unharmed, resting comfortably on the floor, a miracle. Sharon had to be cut out of the car using the jaws of life and had lost a lot of blood. They weren't sure if she'd make it to the hospital, but they were able to helivac her out and save her life. The Dark had failed at their mission, but they were now aware that Scott was being looked over and protected by the Angels. This must indeed be a very important soul for the Light. Sharon was now a more important minion than they had previously known and her oversoul would have a new mission. They needed to insure they interrupted whatever plans the Light had for this little boy, even if they were unable to kill him outright. The spotlight was now on David and his son Scott.

When a baby is born, they are fully 5D and have full connection across the veil to their oversoul. Their oversouls are able to communicate with their souls and their souls are able to fully merge with personality (ego) and control the body. For many, their third eye is fully open and they are able to see beings in the other dimensions visible in this plane (Angels, engergy beings, elementals, etc). As time goes by and they begin to interact with the world around them, they begin to become a part of the world they are born into. This varies by child and by their upbringing, but by age two most children on Earth begin to shutdown, lose connection to oversoul, and their soul unmerges from their personality. Planet Earth is still 3D and all things in the universe seek equilibrium. It's hard for a body to maintain a 5D vibration when surrounded by 3D signal and the 3D indoctrination of every sort that is pushed on society by the Dark. The Dark have many tools in their bag of tricks to ensure the people and the planet remain 3D and enslaved. By age five, if not before, most children have lost connection to their oversouls completely and their soul has fully unmerged from personality. This is the reason that most children don't remember much, if anything, from their childhood before they are five, the great forgetting by their soul has occurred. Their soul becomes a small voice in the back of their head and they've fully forgotten who they are and where they came from. The soul itself begins to struggle as its guidance is cutoff from above, except during dreaming where they can seek the assistance of other souls able to cross over to their side of the veil, or those incarnated on Earth with them. Dream time is a time for planning and strategy and a time where the Angels and other beings able to cross into these realms can advise the soul. It's still a difficult task for the advisors as the soul has succumbed to the 3D nature of the world and has often forgotten who and what it is. It will often retain a sense of the plan it set out on Earth to accomplish, but the details surrounding it are lost or fuzzy. The Human ego is also a hard character for the soul to try to guide and the Earth a difficult environment. For those lucky enough to maintain their 5D nature, they're still able to slip out of the veil and gain the advice of their oversouls and are able to retain the memories of who they are. There are also ways for the Dark to cheat the system and force a connection across the veils through use of technology, but the souls of the Light are generally on their own when they slip into the 3D. Earth is not an easy assignment for any soul, even those hardened and tested by the ages of time.

When babies are born, it's a good opportunity for the babies connected to oversoul to communicate with other souls in the family, to give them an update. Depending on how far into the 3D a soul has slipped and how much they have forgotten about who they really are, sometimes they take the advice and sometimes they don't. Scott's soul knew that Sharon was not supposed to be his mother, but he didn't know what had happened to cause the shift in plan. Scott's soul let David's soul know that this wasn't the woman he was supposed to meet and marry, that he was off plan, and something was seriously wrong (there had been interference). By this time, David's soul had spent a lot of time on Earth and had been on its own for a long time without guidance from its oversoul. David's soul had slipped deep into the 3D forgetting. David's soul couldn't directly take control of the personality but could only flash ideas into the consciousness. Whether David's personality decided to act on those ideas or come up with ideas of his own, David's soul could not control. David's soul remembered enough of what he was to listen to the soul of his newborn son. He'd been visited by the Angels on many occasions and had many Divine interventions already in his young life. It was easy to rationalize these away, to stay in the forgetfulness of 3D life, but this message his soul heeded. David's soul began to send the alerts to David's personality that this wasn't the woman for him. It would take some time to convince the personality of the danger and David's soul would have to stay strong in its conviction and remembrance that it was off plan. David would spend much time with his son and their souls would have many conversations. It was time for David to begin remembering again, for Scott's sake if nothing else.
