

Good vs Bad Presentation Characteristics

Students will be able to identify the characteristics of a GOOD presentation.

Directions:

1. Use the t-chart on the following page to compare the characteristics of good and bad presentations.
2. List at least five characteristics on each side of the chart.

Good vs. Bad
Good presentation characteristics	Bad presentation characteristics
<ul style="list-style-type: none">● Introduce the topic.● State what is known.● State what remains unknown.● Introduce the main question.● Indicate how this work fits into the big picture	<ul style="list-style-type: none">● Starting with an apology. The bad habit: You're late, your equipment malfunctions, you don't have your materials, or whatever.● Asking for extra time.● Shooting slide barrages.● Making personal excuses.● Reading from your slides.

--	--