Kata kunci: kata kunci 1, kata kunci 2, kata kunci 3, kata kunci 4, kata kunci 5. (Times New Roman 10pt, justified, 1.15 line spacing, spacing before: 6pt)

PENDAHULUAN (Times New Roman 11pt, bold, centered, capital letter, 1.15 line spacing)

Introduction is an opening to the core of article, which includes a summary of the research problems and theoretical studies. Introduction describes the background and the current state of the topic discussed, by presenting references, previous results of researches and studies. Introduction also includes research questions/objectives that will be answered through the research conducted. Therefore, there are points to be noted in writing the introduction as follows:

- a. Introduction describes the current status on the topic scientifically.
- b. Research questions/objectives are stated in the last paragraph along with a brief description on the approach for problem-solving.
- c. Statement on the benefits of the research are not recommended to be written in the introduction. If the research findings are beneficial, they can be written on the Conclusions.

(Times New Roman 11pt, justified, 1.15 line spacing)

METODOLOGI (Times New Roman 11pt, bold, centered, capital letter, 1.15 line spacing)

Methodology describes the research design, research object or sample, as well as data collection and analysis techniques used. As for policy analysis, methodology contains a concise framework, scope of discussion, location and time of study, type of data, data collection process, and data analysis. (Times New Roman 11pt, justified, 1.15 line spacing)

HASIL DAN PEMBAHASAN (Times New Roman 11pt, bold, centered, capital letter, 1.15 line spacing)

Results and discussion contains results of data analysis, results of hypothesis-testing, answers to the research questions, findings and interpretations of findings. Results and discussion of policy analysis contains the results of data analysis according to its scope and objective.

Decimal numbers on paragraphs and tables are written with period marks (.). Thousands on numbers are marked with comma (,). Inside paragraphs, range shall not be written with stripe mark (-) but with words, e.g. “xx to xx”, “from xx to xx”.

There are points to be noted in writing results and discussion as follows:

- a. Results are generally followed by illustrations (tables or figures).
- b. Each illustration (tables or figures) should be numbered consecutively and referred in the text so that the placing is not mistake.

Subjudul

(Times New Roman 11pt, each word should begin with capitalized letter, bold, centered, 1.15 line spacing)

a. Tabel

Tables are inserted within the text (not attached separately at the end of the script). The width of tables are limited to 153 mm (two-column text of this template). Numbering of the tables are sequential.

Table titles are written above the table, on the left side. If the table-title length exceeds one line, the first letter of the second line is placed in line with the first letter of the table title. Table titles is not ended with a period mark (.), except there is an additional sentence that provides additional information. Table titles and the head of tables are written using a capital letter only at the beginning of the sentence, except for names and certain terms that shall be started with a capital letter. Terms that are used in the table title shall be the same with the terms used in the narration/paragraphs. If there are abbreviations used in the table title, explanation shall be written as table footnote.

Vertical lines should not be used in tables. Font size for table title and content are 10 point with single line spacing. Table source and additional notes (if any) are listed below the table in font size 10 points with single line spacing.

Example of tables are as follows:

Table 1. Title of table (if the table-title length exceeds one line, the first letter of the second line is placed in line with the first letter of the table title)
