

If you have any questions or resources you would like to see added to this list, please reach out to Olivia at ondavis1@asu.edu

Olivia's Dissertation Land Acknowledgement:

Sources: Dr. Krystal Tsosie (ASU School of Life Sciences, Native BioData consortium co-founder), Alex Soto (Labriola), Dr. Michael Crow (ASU President)

I would like to acknowledge the 23 Indigenous Nations that have inhabited this land for centuries.

Arizona State University's campuses are located in the Salt River Valley on ancestral territories of Indigenous peoples, including the Akimel O'odham (Pima) and Pee Posh (Maricopa) Indian Communities.

I would also like to acknowledge all of the Indigenous Nations within the United States, who were stewards of the land and wildlife we have here long before the Endangered Species Act and continue to be stewards of the land today.

We are dedicated to supporting Indigenous Nations in achieving conservation and data futures of their own making.

Resources:

A. #LandBack (<https://landback.org/>)

B. #Databack

(<https://animikii.com/insights/databack-recognize-and-reclaim-indigenous-data-sovereignty>)

C. Native BioData consortium (<https://nativebio.org/>)

D. Arizona State University Labriola National American Indian Data Center (<https://lib.asu.edu/labriola>)

E. Cultural Survival (<https://www.culturalsurvival.org/>)

About Us ▾

Our Approach ▾

Our Publications ▾

Get Involved ▾

Latest

DONATE

Support Indigenous Rights!