

THE GROUPS OF FIVE

“This fish? Good fish”

Ijiraq 4/1 (DA)
Greater smoke 15/7 (OG)
Moose Buck 13/16 (MP)
Child 13 14/19 (NS)
Skunk? 7/25 (GY)

MESSAGE CONFIRMED AS “DAMPNSOGGY”

If the Skunk matches this set, you can spell
DAMP N SOGGY with these letters, matching the Moist like a Swamp clue from the trader.

Testing with the Skunk would both add credence to the theory that the exact wording matters, and suggest that the ? option from the trader gives clues for the wording of each set.

“Fish. Good. Good fish.”

Mantis 12/25
(LY)

“Good Fish. Good Pick”

Strange Frog 18/19 (RS)
Pack Mule 18/1 (RA)

MESSAGE CONFIRMED AS “RAZORSHARP”

“Good Fish. Easy Choose.”

Frozen Opossum 5/19 (ES)

“Bad fish. No choose”.

Turkey Vulture 15/13 (OM)
Cockroach 18/4 (RD)
Opossum 5/5 (EE)

Ok but obviously nobody is going to vote skunk this time, and next round we should do river otter. So maybe skunk after that?

Total agreement. Either Frozen Opossum or Beaver this round, go hard for Skunk next round. We do frozen/beaver this round, the one out of that, which we didn't pick next, and then skunk after.

Could you guys help me try and decode the bad fish no choose im kinda flumped as to what it could be

Bone costs, I would think.

No as in what the message could mean

Too fast, Too Soon.

Can we move this discussion down to the notes?

Undetermined:

Magpie 11/1 (KA)

Skunk 7/25 (GY)

Frozen Opossum 5/19 (ES)

River Otter 25/3 (YC)

Beaver 12/5 (LE)

The magpie is almost certainly part of the phrase kaycees mod, so is frozen opossum with that logic, if we are to confirm this theory we would need those both to have brand new reactions

River otter is also part of that phrase

So we should test that too

kaYCee

KA YC EE SM OD

We have KA, YC and EE, although EE was bad fish

EE was bad fish though

Notes:

Both: "good fish, good pick" cards are exclusively used by bosses.

"Fish. Good. Good Fish." is pseudopalindromic, which could possibly line up with mantis gods bifurcated strike?

We could be potentially seeing a series of 5 phrases we need to string together or somehow use together

In keeping with the "reverse moon" theme, could the "bad fish" message be reversed? "OM" could, in that case, be part of "moon".

Opossum technically "transforms" from frozen opossum, yet is still bad fish.

Opossum does not "technically" transform it can exit out of frozen 🤔🤔🤔🤔🤔🤔

If you mod frozen opossum into your deck and transfer a sigil onto it, the sigil is on the thawed possum. Does making it a transformation.

So "technically" technically, it does transform.

(Feel free 2 add ur own!)

Let's assume that pelts are their own group. It's entirely possible that there could be as few as two (the number that we see currently) and upwards of however many boulders have yet been revealed. I think it would make sense for us to see if the prospector has any secrets in regards to where the golden pelts might be placed, so we can get a firm grasp of how many there actually are. With this information, we can then start understanding why certain cards are grouped together. For example, it might be possible that the 'Fish. Good. Good Fish' cards are cards that are already on the board - so, perhaps it's Magpie. 'Good Fish. Good Pick' seem like boss enemies. "Bad Fish. No Choose" just seem to be bone cards. And then there could be a miscellaneous group or another group we haven't seen, yet. Or it might be possible that all cards fall into these categories, but we might have to determine which ones within each group are connected.

"Anonymous tiger's quarantine zone". Leave all your river otter ramblings in this box please, and leave the rest of us to more..... intellectual matters.

