

NUWEE project group participated in the first Study Visit within the “INTERADIS” project

Co-funded by the Erasmus+ Programme
of the European Union

On April 7, 2021, representatives of the National University of Water and Environmental Engineering project team participated in the first online workshop within the Erasmus + project “International Students Adaptation and Integration / INTERADIS”. The workshop was organized and moderated by Oliver Schmidt, a startup consultant and innovation manager at the Freie Universität Berlin, and the Hultgren Sustainable Development Consulting Agency. The workshop on the development of internationalization perspectives and strategies was aimed at faculty and administrative staff related to the international students’ affairs and who participate in developing and implementing of international strategy at the university.

During the study visit, participants were able to learn in an interactive form:

- challenges facing universities in the pandemic COVID-19 situation and ways to overcome them;
- methods of efficient University International Strategy and educational services / products development, taking into account the needs and characteristics of the university, target audience, as well as the needed resources;
- how to engage internal and external stakeholders in the implementation of university strategic goals;

- ways to reach international students and methods to increase the international students motivation to study;
- marketing mechanisms and quality advertising of educational services in a competitive environment, and other issues.
