

Tcabuinji (N Lesser God)

by Jerome Arkenberg (from "The Mythos of Polynesia in Dungeons & Dragons", Dragon Magazine #20. Additional stats by DM Superelf.)

ARMOR CLASS: -1

MOVE: 20"

HIT POINTS: 210

NO. OF ATTACKS:

DAMAGE/ATTACK:

SPECIAL ATTACKS:

SPECIAL DEFENSES:

MAGIC RESISTANCE: Standard

SIZE: L (12' tall)

ALIGNMENT: Neutral

WORSHIPER'S ALIGNMENT: Any

SYMBOL:

PLANE:

CLERIC/DRUID: Nil

FIGHTER: 18th level fighter

MAGIC-USER/ILLUSIONIST: 19th level magic-user

THIEF/ASSASSIN: Nil

MONK/BARD: Nil

PSIONIC ABILITY: III

Attack/Defense Modes: (determine)

S:

I:

W:

D:

C:

Ch:

LEVEL/X.P. VALUE: (determine)

Tcabuinji is nine feet tall, and has stripes on his body. Tcabuinji carries a boomerang which strikes for 5-30 points of damage (+2 to hit), and a stone axe. Tcabuinji could split whole trees with his axe when he struck them, as if by lightning. The two brothers (Tcabuinji and Wagtjadbulla) are great rivals. They also lack a mouth, and attached to their heads are antennae-like objects.