

how can you promise anything?

can you?

i've made many promises most of which im sure i have not kept and for that i am sorry is a promise a pact?

or is it something people just say?

when i make promises i want to mean it but my mind could never be quite sure through empty words i promised id stay forever, and that is not to say that i didn't want to.

you have no idea what will happen life is simply a series of coincidences, and if not, why is it so hard to assure anything?

i do not like making promises when i break them i swear to myself that i will never make another but that never lasts long betrayal

i believe that things that i say sometimes

but i've never made a promise i haven't had pain in my stomach over i promised to my parents that id never lie what life would that be?

not mine

i try to live honestly, but that is not the human condition

i love my friends and family, that is not a lie

but i will never promise to love anyone ever again i have promised that im okay, is anyone ever really?

i never believe it

don't make promises you can't keep and out of fear of lying i will never make a promise again

- SMONK