BEA: Your blasphemies, your disgraces, sinister beasts and gentle devils. It's been a year since Claire moved in here with me and made life good!

CLAIRE: Bea, that's so sweet!

BEA: And not the stupid kind of good, the good kind of good, where I'm still evil.

Laughter

BEA: One of us!

TODD: I wanted to invite you to my show, if that's all right with your husband.

CLAIRE: Still not married.

TODD: Well, your betrothed then. Or whoever's holding your purity ring.

CLAIRE: I'm single.

TODD: In your prime birthing years?

CLAIRE: Okay

GLENN: I call upon thee in the name of Jesus, who is the lamb, who is also the lion, who died for all mankind's sins, but mostly for ours!

BEA: I once knew a ghost that was a ship.

HANNAH: You're one of those people who likes to have the better story, huh?

BEA: Ha, I am. And it works. You know why?

HANNAH: Hm?

BEA: My story's always better.

BOOMERS: God hates figs! God hates figs! (What!)

SURGAT: Are we sacrificing you at last?

CLAIRE: What?

SURGAT: Is this not what we've been building up to all year?

CLAIRE: Last time we messed with him, we almost lost everything.

BEA: Last time we messed with him, you were just a human and I was just a demon.

CLAIRE: What are we now?

BEA: We're something unstoppable. We're roommates.
