Hi guys! This doc has been sitting in my phone for about 2 weeks now as it is one of the hardest things I've had to come to terms with but I will never be ready so I have to rip the bandaid off.

I know I've been on and off through the years and streaming very few and thin.

Life is rough right now and I'm trying to figure out my future. As you know I have two kids now, a 4 month old and an almost 3 year old! As much as I love these goof balls they take up an insane amount of my free time and I was only able to get a little free time when rin slept through the night and alone at exactly 2 years old. So with a new baby here and rin on top of that my time at night is limited severely. It feels so stressful trying to juggle it all. So I think my time running servers and streaming is coming to a pause, I don't want to quit it's been a huge part of my life and I have so many great friends from this community but I definitely need to breathe and figure out what's next and if it's to continue this then figure out my plan for that. I might play a game or two on stream when I get the chance but no promises. And to all my friends I'm always down to help with your projects and pop in to events if you will have me 🩷 it's been a fun time in this community and a fun time running servers for you all! Because of this yes there will be no holiday or moist smp this year and I'm not sure if they will come back next year, I need to see where my life is at that point. Moist smp and holiday will always live on and I would like moist smp to return once again but I think for now season 6 and holiday season 3 need to be put on hold. a lot of my staff are in all different seasons of life including me so I think it's best we take a break and come back when we are ready because if the heart isn't in it then it won't be good.

I've loved streaming for you all since 2021 😬 yikes I'm old now. It's been so fun and I miss it everyday but my priorities are shifted. It's my job to make sure I raise the next generation of minecrafters the right way and in these early years they need all the focus I can give them. Did you know rin will be going to kindergarten in 2028 🥲 crazy right??? we got a lot to learn in that time.

Huge shoutout to wepwawet hosting the best hoster for servers and my friend. None of my dreams or the people I met would of been possible without the partnership I was given and the friendship I treasure. I owe a lot to wep genuinely.

And to a few people I can pick out who have always stuck by me and helped with smps and ofc I can't name you all but I treasure you all deeply! Mayhem, Brando, winged, Maggiemoozle, tawfii, loogi, bk, and so so many more!

And the biggest shoutout to my beloved bunipom who stuck by my side the whole way through. from the first season of moist to this last one almost 6 years of moist smp and our friendship, every cry, every moment of joy and frustration from this smp buni was there. And she knew how scared I was to make this announcement and how I've thought of doing it for years, I'd like to think she would be proud of me for taking this step. It's especially hard to continue right now without my best friend by my side, trying to live without her is hard on its own let alone running a server and streaming and taking care of children. when I needed ideas or to vent or even someone to just ground me in the chaos she was always there to help me through it. I miss her every day and I think losing her was the push I needed because life is short and we shouldn't continue doing something that makes it harder, I wish she would have had that thought but we can't change the past. I can only thank her for all she has done for me and for moist smp. Without her there would be no moist smp after the first season.

I hope no one hates me for this because I know how much you all love holiday and moist smp and I never want to let anyone down but I can't give you something I can't put my all into. I don't know when I'll be back for good but I'll be around on twitter , still doing comms and supporting in the twitch chats and cheering on the events and smps and if you need me hmu I'll see if I have time to play anything! I miss you all and I can't wait to come back one day! It's not a bye yet it's a See you later 🩷🖤