

Episode 62: Deathly Dungeons: Tudors in the Tower

Photogravure 1910 by Alvin Langdon Coburn, the Museum of London

Hew Draper

"Hew Draper of Brystow made this sphere the 30 day of Maye anno 1561" . Wikimedia Commons

Bess of Hardwick. When this portrait was painted, she was known as Lady St. Loe. Wikimedia Commons

“Hardwick Hall, more glass than wall.” Bess of Hardwick knew a thing or two about style. She was involved in every aspect of the design and construction of her Hardwick Hall, described by Ian Mortimer as “the most aesthetically perfect house of the age”:

‘Sorcerer’ Hew Draper’s London Graffiti: A Black Art Indeed by Jonathan James in The Guardian 13 April 2010

Elizabeth \(Bess\) Hardwick from Tudor Times

Bess of Hardwick in English Heritage

Sir William St Loe from the History of Parliament.

Edward St. Loe (Boo! Hiss) from the History of Parliament.

The Posh People with Titles

Anne Boleyn, Lady Jane Grey, Lady Arbella Stuart, Margaret Pole / The Countess of Shrewsbury, Wikimedia Commons

Oxford Dictionary of National Biography

Anne Boleyn's Ghost by Liam Archer. 2013.

The Ghost of Anne Boleyn from the Anne Boleyn Files

Ghostly Visitors by Spectre Stricken (William Moses). Find the Google Book HERE.

Lady Jane Grey from Encyclopedia Britannica

Lady Jane Grey from Historic Royal Palaces

Lady Arbella Stuart from the Friends of Sheffield Castle

Alice Tankerville, sometimes referred to as Alice Wolf

Alice made her way to St Thomas' Tower and Traitor Bridge.

The entrance to the chamber known as Little Ease, where John Bawde was imprisoned after abetting Alice's escape. It measures 4 feet high by 2 feet wide. A prisoner could neither stand, nor sit, nor lay down. Ugh.

Alice Wolf, 'the Diabolic Woman' by Lauren Johnson in English Historic Women Authors
The Tale of Alice Tankerville and the Theft of 366 Crowns in Just History Posts

Our musical guest, Stanley Holloway

Listen to With Her Head Tucked Underneath Her Arm by Sidney Holloway

Other helpful sources included:

Death in Tudor England from On the Tudor Trail.

Article Witchcraft from UK Parliament

Love Spells and Lost Treasure: Service Magic in England from the Later Middle Ages to the Early Modern Era, from Eminent Elizabethans by AL Rowse

A Biographical Encyclopedia of Early Modern Englishwomen: Exemplary Lives

The History and Antiquities of the Tower of London by John Bayley.

And...

Our music is from the album Astral Gate, with permission of the artists, Lucas Perny and Miroslav Kollar.
Audio mixing by DJ Kensington.

Links...

Podcast website

Our blog

Email us at yesterdayslondontimes@gmail.com

Follow us on:

Facebook @ Yesterday's London Times Podcast

Instagram @ Yesterday's London Times Podcast

Threads @ Yesterday's London Times Podcast

TikTok @ YLTPod

2024 Collective Good Productions LLC

