

SPECIES BIO

Let's start with the basics; they are a race of cave-dwelling bat like species and they will feed on both metal and fruits. This also includes the mushrooms that grow in their caves, the mushroom gives them the glow you see on kuyo, 'pink' being the hardest color but blues, whites, and greens are more common they eat them shortly after birth to give them the glow and allows the body to learn to make the pigment itself, next they have long tails with long fluff hairs at the end that move down to to a tip. With practice they can use the tip like a whip, like snapping your fingers or whistling used for self-defence as claws and fangs are out of reach. Then we go to the claws, the claws are very densely grown made to be able to support the body and hook into stone walls. They are dense due to high traces of iron in them.

The wings are proportional to size as a 6ft tall bat kuyo has a wingspan of 10 ft from shoulder to wing tip fully extended on both sides. So roughly a 20ft wingspan between the body. As you might guess the wings glow themselves and there are those with the arm wings and those with pure back wings. the span is about the same Kuyo, it just so happens to be one with arm wings! Arm wings are meant for long travel gliding on long drafts of winds but are slower flyers over all. The ones with back wings are faster in short distances but cant keep up do to lack of stamina over distance. Next are their fangs, there is a reason they eat mushrooms to get the glow outside of aesthetics as a byproduct they can make enzymes that reduce pain, their fangs are made with holes like a snake and can inject more if they wish, each one having a given name.

Feeding Bite :minimal amount will numb pain and let her feed without much resistance.

Lovers Embrace: Is a +1 dose that will make the body feel like the afterglow of an orgasm. Lover's Kiss : is a +2 dose that will put the body in a state of heightened sensitivity and makes men stay hard even after cumming.

These effects last about 2-3 hours.

Lover's Curse: This is a 3+ dosage that puts the body in a tortured state of pleasure denial, making the body sensitive to every little thing. A breath of wind the right way would make you orgasm if it weren't for the next side effect. The side effect brings the person to that moment just before orgasm and holds him/her there, never letting up, leaving you stuck at 3 doses. It'll last for 4 hours, any more and it's a minimum 24h to a week depending on the dose.

Next there are no males, only herms and females; herms are able to make SOLID metal eggs in the body. This can be any metal they ingest like iron from blood if they don't need it, it's said they like to add metal dust to foods like gold and copper. It works the same the same as normal, the body builds the egg like a clam does a pearl layer by layer at the absolute smallest amounts, making them have a unique 'luster' of a pearl look to them. Due to micro imperfections the eggs are housed inside the body in a pseudo uterus just over the real one.

There is one more egg called the virgin's egg, it is made of any metals that they have eaten over the years. Each one is unique to them and often given to lovers or kept as mementos of lost ones it is as unique to them as a fingerprint and they will always know without a doubt that it is their own.

as you may guess the virgin egg is released after the virginity of the member is lost or if they masterbate there eggs are sent to the knott either doubling or quadrupling the knot size depending on the egg size

the member in its natural state is much like a tindral vary soft and slick but it can change its shape either by observing another member into contact with one with it or memorizing it they will naturally have have the normal one but also have a natural default based off the first they memorized by any means but no matter what they will have a knot and the member can not be bigger than their natural member is the nails are heavy in iron do to them consuming so much and i still have to explain birth X3'

there are 2 kinds of birth one is normal live birth and the other is a rare egg birth the egg birth is when a herm deposits all of the metal eggs they have stored and drink milk of tire lover while in heat making them both ready while both are in heat they have sex the partner's egg will grow and the soft shell becomes hard only letting nutrients inside its shell also getting light coats of metal

One last thing a few rare cases are born with a single ability to take on temporary traits of someone they touch. So if they choose too they can take on traits of a fox a shark even dragons or incetoides
