

FILE ACCESSED

“THE GREEN GOBLIN” – SUBJECT DECEASED, CASE CLOSED ?

PERSONNEL FILE #031 – ORGANIZATION REDACTED

SIXTH LEVEL CLEARANCE AND ABOVE ONLY

Identification

Full Name:	Harold Theopolis Osborn	← Often goes by the nickname of 'Harry'
DoB:	13th of December 1988	Within the vast reaches of the multiverse, the son of Spider-Man's closest companion has taken on many names - The Green Goblin, The Hobgoblin, even the title used by the symbiote known as 'Venom,' however, evidently their relationship is not without its conflicts often prompted by the vigilante aspect of Parker's identify and a installed loyalty to his father, who holds the mantle of first 'Green Goblin' in the majority of continuity.
PoB:	Manhattan, NYC, North American Union
Employment:	OSCORP Industries
Position:	Heir - current co-CEO
Rank:	Inherited	That being said, there have been the odd variation from such a flow, including the Harold Osborn from Earth-120703 who also, coincidentally, took on the infamous title in place of his father due to him being prematurely deceased.
Hair color:	Auburn	In the case of this reality, however, as the fates of various residents on this Earth were delayed (and, in some cases, non-existent during their lifetime, as is the case with Osborn Sr), the intended string of events have been interrupted, causing for certain alterations to take place behind the . From observation, it appears that the subject has donned this technology with a more hero-inspired intention, a event not new in terms of the patent of Harold Osborn (see notes on Earth-18628 for more information) however, seemingly a first when we take into account that The Green Goblin has never held a position of true antagonism on the grounds of Earth-6160.
Eye color:	Green
Height:	5'8"
Build:	Athletic
Ethnicity:	White American
Special marks:	N / A - any injuries present on Osborn's body are temporary marks of damage sustained in combat

Skills/Education

- Base-Level Combat
- Advancements Through Gear
- A variety of attributes from his inherited career path that have been skillfully repurposed and reused with success, including the likes of strategic planning, problem solving, networking and leadership (despite being confined to a team).
- An attendee of private schools in the surrounding New York City area.
- Graduate of Standard High School and Empire State University

Health Record

No physical / internal health conditions or concerns are present / yet recorded. Subject has displayed average athletic and combat skills that have shown gradual improvement over the course of the passing months whilst wearing the mask of The Green Goblin alias. Prior observation implies a lack of excel when studied for their progress during physical education in their youth - applications for the likes of quarterback / general sport team positions being met with overall rejection in teenage years. It is to be noted that although the subject has shown no concerning advancements in their stamina or strength, improvements have been present as subject partakes in a routine-based exercise regime outside of their vigilantism occupation that appears to have begun in mid-March in order to maintain in peak form.

Known connections

Name: Norman V. Osborn
Relation: Biological Father
Status: Deceased
Notes: Reconstructed as an A.I. personality profile in subject's armory

Name: Emily M. Lyman-Osborn
Relation: Biological Mother
Status: Deceased
Notes:

Name: Gwendolyn M. Obsorn-Stacy
Relation: Wife
Status: Deceased
Notes: Oscorp's former CEO following subject's passing.
ELIMINATED.

Name: Peter B. Parker
Relation: Friend / Associate in Vigilantism
Status: Alive
Notes: Aware of dual identity - identity of 'Spider-Man' persona.

Name: Doctor Otto Octavius
Relation: Employee
Status: Alive
Notes: Originally employed by Norman Osborn.

Name: Mary Jane Watson-Parker
Relation: Affiliate of Peter Parker
Status: Alive
Notes: Wife of Peter Parker

Name: Richard Parker
Relation: Affiliate of Peter Parker
Status: Alive
Notes: Child of Peter and Mary Jane Parker

Name: May Parker
Relation: Affiliate of Peter Parker
Status: Alive
Notes: Child of Peter and Mary Jane Parker

Name:
Relation:
Status:
Notes:

Psychological Evaluation

Harold Osborn is a boy composed of many layers, as many humans are and continue to be. Growing up is a household where love was an earned luxury and not a birth-given right, the subject learnt at an early age that even the best couldn't be deemed as a worthy excuse for praise or affection - you had to exceed greatness, defy the unexpected. This, in turn, led to a quality of not only an underlying fierce ruthlessness but a desperate longing for validation for those within their company, partially from their late father. His mindset of ideals seems to be a composition of both that belonging to his mother but also to Norman, creating a strange mixture of blind heroism accompanied by a stubborn display of will and force that (for the time being) appears to be used only to a fraction of its full potential - could prove as fatal at a later date, proceed with caution as further study takes place.

Even within the sphere of the press they were known to take part in, the true lives of the Osborn family was one shrouded in mystery to the general public.

Behind closed doors and walls of steel, who were the late Norman and Emily Osborn beneath the skins they wore before us and, most importantly, what of the product of their love, if love is a word that is held in the vocabulary of the great Oscorp founder? Who is 'Harry' Osborn at the very core of his being? Will we ever receive the blessing of knowing or will he, like his father before him, hide behind enough masks to make us wonder what may lay within when the sweet comforting shield of steel bends beneath the heat?

Notable Events

In a Flash of Light

If he had only been seconds earlier, perhaps the Osborn family would have no one left to fight for not only their family legacy but also the integrity of Harry Osborn's very own city. Following the death of his parents at the hands of an act of framed terror, the son of Norman learnt one thing that day - that was the day he decided to dedicate his life to becoming the man his father had always wanted him to be, lying no longer in wait.

All I've Ever Known

No one ever prepares you for that moment when you discover all you have ever thought you knew was a lie. No one warns you that someday, the foundation beneath your feet will give way and you have to be prepared for what you find below and, most importantly, how to survive the fallout. And, in the case of Harry Osborn, whose entire perspective was shifted by nothing more than a few labeled files upon a laptop, his solution had slightly more . . . drastic twist to it.

Right on Target

When they said you meet friends in the most unexpected of places, I doubt they meant within the chaos of an active three-person battlefield and it was in March of 2024 during an altercation between The Green Goblin, Bullseye and Spider-Man that Peter Parker met Harry Osborn met upon the grounds of a Wilson Fisk construction site and the futures of two men were woven into one.

In The Back of My Mind

Upon activation in July, the costuming of both the Osborn and Parker was offered a unique addition that would offer far more impact than anyone would offer it credit for - an onboard artificial intelligence system that, when activated, would require a complete suit reboot to turn off. And, as any child with parental issues may do, what better voice to hear in your helmet than that of your father offering you enticing words of encouragement in combat! And only someone utterly deluded would anticipate those words from the mouth of the Oscorp founder.

Feline Lucky?

September. That was when The Green Goblin and Spider-Man went up against yet another foe sent before them on one of the many rooftops of New York City - The Black Cat, quite the fight he put up indeed. Almost too good a fight. What a shame that he could not withstand a fall from an apartment block with his large ego to cushion his fall from injury?

Thrill of The Hunt.

November - February 2025. Missing. That is what the Spider-Man and Green Goblin of New York were. They were in the element of Kraven The Hunter. They were at his mercy. And, as if destiny was finally ignited, one gunshot would change everything. Two men would enter the ring yet only one would leave. And what world is left for Peter Parker to return to after his amenity is lost along with his family's safety and best friend to boot?

No One Mourns The Wicked.

February still. Harold Osborn is declared deceased to the world however, The Green Goblin? Well, he roams free still as Spring dawns over the world, his hand more ruthless than ever before with a new ally by his side . . .

Additional Notes

- For a collection of aesthetic analysis, please visit this documentation for a visual representation of continuously gathering evidence.
- For a psychological analysis as an insight to the subject's mental state, please visit this documentation for an audio representation of continuously gathering evidence.