Commercial Roofing Materials

Texas Metal Roof Contractor's experts will also assist you in choosing the right roofing materials for a new roof to best protect your business and its valuable contents. We are experienced at installing and repairing all types of commercial roofs including:

- Metal roofs: Metal has been a very popular option in Texas and is becoming more popular every day. New coatings and alloys make metal roofing more durable and produce life cycles that can exceed slate and shingles. If you want a roof that will stand the test of time, you want a metal roof. They usually last at least twenty five years and sometimes last up to fifty years. Metal roofs are rarely affected at all by harsh weather. It can take the harshest rainfall, wind, and sun. Normally, they will withstand any weather condition. In addition to weather, they also resist mildew, insects, fire, and rot that commonly affect other roofs.

- Flat roofs: Flat Roofs are the most common type of roof used on commercial buildings. This type of roof requires a highly specialized team that understands the important coverage and drainage issues.
- Shingle roofs: Shingles are used on peaked roofs, asphalt or fiberglass shingles offer affordable protection in a wide range of styles and colors. We can help you match the right choice for you commercial building style and size.
- Slate roofs: Slate is one of oldest known roofing materials. Modern slate roofing material from manufacturers such as GAF are modified to be lighter and more affordable and still provide an elegant look and long life. Slate is an excellent choice for historical buildings.
