

Evelyn began her journey with Broome-Tioga BOCES in February 2026 as a Career Connected Learning Specialist. Prior to this role, she served as a business educator and the Work-Based Learning Coordinator at Greene Central School District. In that capacity, she taught a variety of business and college/career readiness courses while managing the district's apprenticeship program and connecting students with local businesses. As the Work-Based Learning Coordinator, she prepared and mentored students for apprenticeships and work experiences from the point of interest through the completion of their senior apprentice capstone projects - while maintaining strong partnerships with community partners.

After 15 years of diverse industry experience, Evelyn returned to academia as a non-traditional student at SUNY Broome where she discovered her passion for teaching. She subsequently transferred to SUNY Oswego to earn her Bachelor's degree in Business and Marketing Education, with a minor in Economics, while also obtaining her Work-Based Learning Coordinator extensions. To further strengthen her academic foundation, Evelyn went on to earn her MBA from Benedictine University.

Evelyn believes it is our shared responsibility to create engaging, purpose-driven learning experiences that do more than educate - they inspire a resilient growth mindset and a lifelong passion for discovery.

'A brain was only capable of what it could conceive, and it couldn't conceive what it had never experienced.' – Graham Greene