Description:
Recently promoted? Feeling stuck? Not sure what to do next to advance your career?

Group coaching helps faculty learn with and from one another, clarify priorities, strengthen leadership, and navigate career challenges and institutional complexity with guidance by a trained coach. It builds community and accountability while exploring questions such as: What's next? What do I say 'yes' to and what do I let go of? How can I achieve meaningful impact and success while having time for myself, family, community?

The Office of Faculty Affairs is offering three coaching groups facilitated by Amanda Termuhlen, MD, ACC: two for Associate Professors and one for Full Professors. Each group of 4–8 faculty will explore shared career challenges and grow skills relevant to their goals.

The program includes six 90-minute sessions from January through April 2027, plus an individual introductory meeting with Dr. Termuhlen to discuss your goals.

Apply through the link above and upload a recent CV by October 30, 2026. Groups will be selected by November 15, 2026.

Audience:
Associate and Full Professors on any track.

Instructor:
Amanda Termuhlen, MD, Professor Emeritus, Pediatrics, University of Minnesota Medical School | Adjunct Professor, Pediatrics, Drexel University College of Medicine, Leadership Team, Executive Leadership in Academic Medicine Program
