IReady, IXL, Reading Plus, Brainpop and McGraw Hill are managed by Clever currently which means you will be taken directly to the site and logged in with Clever credentials. The rest of the sites still require a one time username and password link. So the first time you access one of those sites you will be directed to the site but will need to copy and paste your username and password once clever takes you to the site. From then on it will be saved and you will have one click access. I recommend you get the Clever Chrome extension as directed above.
