

PROJECT BRIEF
Client	Secret Saviours, stretch mark prevention skincare for mums-to-be.
Overview	This three-email welcome series introduces new subscribers to Secret Saviours and their clinically proven 3-step system for preventing pregnancy stretch marks, and drives their first purchase with an exclusive 10% welcome discount (code: WELCOME2026). RECOMMENDATIONS! 1. Keep it Warm, Reassuring & Personal. Speak directly to mums-to-be like a caring friend who's been there this is an emotional topic tied to body image and pregnancy, not just a skincare purchase. 2. Focus on Benefits Over Features. Emphasize the emotional payoff (confidence, feeling comfortable in her own skin) rather than just listing ingredients or product specs. 3. Build Trust Through Science & Social Proof. Back every claim with real numbers (40,000+ mums, 82% success rate) and genuine testimonials from mums. 4. Create Gentle Urgency, Not Pressure. Remind subscribers their 10% code is time-limited, but keep the tone supportive rather than high-pressure this audience is pregnant, not impulse shoppers. 5. Strong, Simple CTAs. Keep CTAs short, clear, and benefit-driven ("SHOP NOW", "DISCOVER THE SCIENCE"). 6. Easy-to-Scan Format. Use bold subheadings, short paragraphs, and clear step-by-step breakdowns (Step One / Two / Three).

	Brand Voice & Tone for Secret Saviours Email Copy  Tone: Warm, Caring & Reassuring • Speak like a trusted friend or expert who has been there. • Acknowledge the fear and vulnerability that come with a changing pregnant body. • Confident but never clinical, pushy, or overwhelming.  Brand Voice: Caring, Science-Backed & Community-Driven • Caring: Validate how the reader feels about her changing body. • Trustworthy: Reinforce credibility with clinical stats, dermatological testing, and real mum testimonials. • Community-Driven: Use “we/us” language and welcome readers into the Secret Saviours community.  Key Writing Techniques ✓ Open with warmth and reassurance (“Congratulations on your pregnancy”). ✓ Lead with the emotional benefit, then the science (“one less thing to worry about”). ✓ Educate clearly with numbered steps (Step One, Step Two, Step Three). ✓ Back it up with proof (“40,000 mums”, “82% chance of staying stretch mark free”). ✓ Always surface the discount code (WELCOME2026) clearly alongside the CTA. Final Thought: This welcome series should make new mums-to-be feel seen, reassured, and confident enough to start their stretch mark prevention routine. By blending empathy, science-backed credibility, and social proof, we aim to turn new subscribers into first-time buyers.
Logic	 Email 1: Welcome + 10% Discount Introduction Subject: Welcome to Secret Saviours 🎁 Here's 10% off Goal: Welcome new subscribers and introduce the exclusive 10% welcome discount. Key Message: Congratulate mums-to-be on protecting their skin from the start and introduce the brand's mission.

you've made a great decision

Congratulations on your pregnancy and on giving your skin the protection it deserves, right from the start.

Stretch marks are one of the most common fears mums-to-be tell us about. Not because they're vain, but because this is a permanent change to a body that's already going through so much. So we made it simple: one routine, done daily, and one less thing to worry about.

the downside of being a mother

Becoming a mother can be incredibly scary, but so can coming out of pregnancy covered in stretch marks. It can make mums-to-be feel uncomfortable in their own skin, hesitate to undress with the lights on, and even give up on wearing a bikini again.

we get it

We're proud to have helped over 40,000 women from getting pregnancy stretch marks with our 3-step system and having talked to many of them totally understand the anxiety you may be feeling about getting these permanent scars.

you can avoid that right now
Discover our 3-step system to prevent stretch marks:

Step one
apply the day gel to your bump/breasts/bottom/legs
