Abstract

[The abstract is written in English. Times New Roman (11pt) is preferred, and the text is between 150-300 words. The abstract should be clear, concise, and descriptive. This abstract should provide a brief introduction to the problem and the objective of the paper, followed by a statement of the methodology if the manuscript is based on a research report, and a brief summary of the results]

INTRODUCTION

The introduction should be clear and provide the issue to be discussed in the manuscript. Before the objective, authors should provide an adequate background, and very short literature survey in order to record the existing conditions, to show which is the best of previous research, to show the main limitation of the previous research, to show what you want to achieve (to solve the limitation), and to show the scientific merit or novelties of the paper. At the end of the paragraph, the author/s should end with a comment on the significance concerning identification of the issue and objective of the research. The manuscript written by the author whose English is a second language needs to be proofread. Ignoring this requirement results in the rejection of the manuscript. The references in the article use Chicago Manual of Style.

RESEARCH METHODS

The method is optional for original research articles. This method is written descriptively and should provide a statement regarding the methodology of the research. This method is, as much as possible, to give the reader an idea.

ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION

This section is the most important section of your article. The analysis or results of the research should be clear and concise. The results should summarise (scientific) findings rather than providing data in great detail. Please highlight differences between your results or findings and the previous publications by other researchers. For tables, you need to label the table.

Table 1: Table's title

| No | Detail 1 | Detail 2 | Etc. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | | | |
| | | | |

Source: Author, Title of the book, year of publication, page(s); or if the data is taken from the analysis, then you should write as :Analysed from the primary source.

For direct citation when it is more than four lines you need to write it in 10 pt with single space:

> "The right to life, the right not to be tortured, the right to freedom of the individual, to freedom of thought and conscience, the right not to be enslaved, the right to be acknowledged as an individual before the law, and the right not to be prosecuted retroactively under the law are human rights that cannot be diminished under any circumstances whatsoever."

Following the main heading, it should be provided for the manuscript. The separation between main headings, sub-headings and sub-sub headings should be numbered in the manuscript with the following example:

HEADING
Sub-Heading
Sub-Sub Heading
1. Number 1
2. Number 2
3. Number 3

CONCLUSION

The conclusion contains a description that should address the problem(s) raised and the objectives of the research. Provide a clear and concise conclusion. Do not repeat the Abstract or simply describe the results of the research. Give a clear explanation regarding the possible application and/or suggestions related to the research findings.

REFERENCES

References and bodynote/endnote at the end of the manuscript should be written in Chicago Manual of Style 17th Edition (full note). They could be cited from books, journal articles, laws, and other references. Cite only items that you have read and written on bodynotes/endnotes. Please use Reference Manager Applications like EndNote, Mendeley, Zotero, etc. (Mendeley is preferred). Use other published articles in the same journal as models. All publications cited in the text should be included as a list of bibliography, arranged alphabetically by author. For example:
