

AISC ES/MS Online Paid Subscriptions 2017-2018 - EleMiddle CIC

We are proud to offer a variety of online resources to support learning. Please find a list of our various online resources made available to you and our students. Unless otherwise noted, all resources use aisc as the username and chennai as the password. Should you or your students need any help in using these resources, please let us know! We are here to help you!

Brainpop

We carry five different versions of Brainpop! Brainpop has short videos on a variety of topics, many of which are covered in our curriculum.

brainpop.com

esl.brainpop.com (for ELD)

fr.brainpop.com (in French)

esp.brainpop.com (in Spanish)

jr.brainpop.com (for the younger learner)

EBSCOHost

This resource has a lot of great resources, including a section on professional development resources/scholarly articles.

search.ebscohost.com

Follett Destiny

This is our online catalog, which gives you access to over 45,000 books. We have 3,000 ebooks which you can download on your device to read even when you are offline. You can access the ebooks through Destiny Discover, a free app. To log into Follett Destiny, the username for students is their school email address and for teachers is their school email without the @aischennai.org part. The password for both is chennai.

<http://aisc.follettdestiny.com>

JStor

Another great resource with scholarly articles, many of which are on education.

jstor.org

Newsbank

Looking for today's news covered from multiple points of view. Get newspaper articles from around the world! There are also special reports and current event sections.

infoweb.newsbank.com

New York Times

Did you know that we have a subscription to the New York Times? In a time when we are regularly reminded of the importance of critical thinking and knowing our sources of information, we are excited to bring this great international news source at no cost to you your way! Please follow these instructions to gain access.

PebbleGo

PebbleGo is a great nonfiction site for students in elementary school. It also has information that is accessible for students who are still learning English. This site will read words outloud to you and topics are covered in easy-to-navigate menus.

pebblego.com

Teen Health and Wellness

Geared more towards middle and high school students, this site has reliable info on health, substance abuse, and more.

teenhealthandwellness.com

Tumblebooks

Tumblebooks is a great way to read and hear stories online. There are also books in additional languages. From picture books to novels, there is something for everyone! Books also have activities and quizzes. Videos and more can be found here too.

tumblebooks.com

tumblebookcloud.com (for the older learner)

Worldbook Online

This site has it all. In addition to general knowledge and encyclopedia information, there are specialized encyclopedias ranging from ancient people to drama and inventions to environmental awareness. Articles can be translated into a variety of languages. There are also native language encyclopedias in French and Spanish. Some very cool features allow you to do special search options.

worldbookonline.com

Additional Notes:

- Please note that our school also has several online resources offered through the IT Department (i.e. Raz Kids, NoodleTools).
- The high school has a few additional resources you may find of interest (geared towards the high school learner): Gale Global Issues in Context, Opposing Viewpoints in Context, Student Research Center, and Science in Context. We also carry a Turnitin account (to thwart plagiarism). Please see Peter in high school if you would like help with any of these.