

Bibliography of Works of Interest by Indigenous Scholars

This bibliography is intended as a resource for History of Science Society members to learn about relevant scholarly literature authored by Native and Indigenous scholars. In creating this list, the Land Acknowledgement Special Interest Group does not mean to suggest that academic scholarship should be privileged over other ways of knowing. Furthermore this is a partial list, and a growing resource.

It can be used as a complement to the rich resources Indigenous scholars have already compiled, such as the NYC Stands with Standing Rock Collective's Standing Rock Syllabus, or this wonderful open course by Zoe Todd.

Many of the scholars listed here have large bodies of work, and we have endeavored to create a sampling of some of the most relevant scholarship for the fields of history of science, technology, medicine, and the environment, anthropology of STEM, STS and closely related fields. We are very grateful for the suggestions from colleagues that have helped develop this list. We welcome suggestions for further development at: [hss\[dot\]land\[dot\]acknowledgement\[at\]gmail\[dot\]org](mailto:hss[dot]land[dot]acknowledgement[at]gmail[dot]org).

Notes:

There is wonderful work on Indigenous Data Sovereignty that is missing here. Please feel free to send specific recommendations for this or other missing literature!
