

Organizations:

This category refers to the various structured groups that operate within a local community environment. These can include local government bodies, non-profit organizations, businesses, educational institutions, and more. They play a significant role in shaping the community's environment through their actions, policies, and interactions with people.

- i. Local Government: This includes city councils, county boards, and other governing bodies. They make decisions on local laws, budgets, and community projects.
- ii. Nonprofits: These organizations often work on specific community issues, like homelessness, education, or environmental conservation.
- iii. Businesses: Local businesses contribute to the economy and can influence the community environment.
- iv. Schools: Educational institutions are a major part of the community and can impact the local environment in various ways.
