Personality		Physical Description/Aesthetic
Alab is slightly eccentric. He might come out as strategical, observant, and quiet at first yet still interactive. Then turn rowdy and fun to be with a hint of loudness especially when you finally cracked open his true self. Although he loved the crowd, there are days he prefers to be lowkey. He refers to having a small circle of goofy friends rather than having a big crowd. Alab enjoyed intellectual talks yet is alright with casual conversations. The most random talks and moments are what perks his interest most of the time. He loves people who are true to their words and finds comfort in words as one of his main love languages is words of affirmation. He is a sucker for compliments, but does not know how to react well to it thus making him all shy or awkward. Communication is a big deal to him and prefers to talk about anything with anyone— complaint, rant, comfort, and spazzing. Although physical touch is one of his love languages, he does not like to receive super close touch affection from anyone (e.g kissing) unless he is comfortable with the person. When it comes to initiating, he is too awkward to do so unless called for (comforting a person) or if he is comfortable		Alab stands 180cm in height with an ectomorph body type. Usually he keeps his hair a little longer than a trim with his fringe passing by his eyes. His hair color changes depending on his mood, but he mostly sports black or brown. Mostly wearing contact lenses, but on some days in glasses. He has 3 piercings on each ear, totalling 6 piercings. Alab does not dress to impress, except for special occasions, but he could count as "fashionable enough". His wardrobe consists of plaid polos (varieties of oversized and fitted), hoodies, shirts, and jeans. Colors are often on the muted side of the color spectrum but there are days he would dress up with a little pop of color. For his shoes, the go-to converse or vans, or combat boots. During "special occasions", he would dress up formally or semi-casual— which usually consists of a coat, button-up polo, and slacks.

with being touchy. He'd give occasional hugs and gentle pats on a normal basis.

ABOUT

Alab Haze is just an ordinary ~~boy~~ man.

A person with dreams. He loved architecture as a child. He was amazed at how complex castles, cathedrals, and buildings stand and became the star of a city, if not a country. Thus, he took Architecture as his University degree, something he is trying to survive. However, despite his stressful days in University, with lots of pencils and pens over his endless drafts, he still finds a way to mingle and pursue other passions…. Or else he will surely lose it.

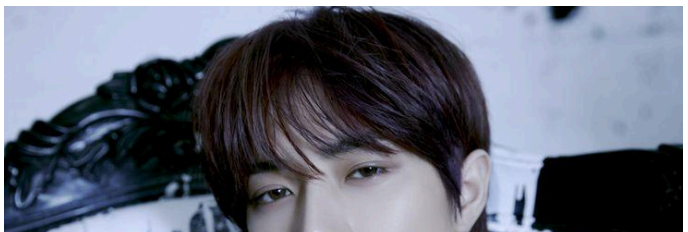

During his free days, we would roam around and take photos, something he grew a hobby of especially since he loved to gaze at pretty buildings. Due to that, he learned to appreciate details— thus it developed into his love for photography.

Aside from that, he had a keen eye for music— he loved rock bands, especially during the 2007's emo era. It was a part of his childhood that he brought even till his adulthood. During his free days, he would join band gigs as a guitarist. Sometimes, he would post a stream of his random song sessions.

Yet despite how ordinary Alab looked, most of his records— birth included— were all normal, a secret lies beneath him. A story that has yet to tell.

No one knew, all this time, that jolly 'ol Architecture Student was related to the Crowned Prince of Monaco. Monsieur Haze Basile Allard, the first cousin to the Crowned Family and Son of the Marquis of Fontvieille.

LE VRAI SOI ; THE TRUE SELF

“ No bastard is crowned king. It is a sin to the crown and to the people. ”

A son of someone of high title looks easy. Perhaps to most but not to Alab, born Haze Basile Allard, the son of Marquis Timothee Grégoire Allard and Marchioness Sofia Allard. Despite the complications of his family ties, Haze lived a normal happy childhood with his parents, siblings, and the workers of their house. To say he lived with a silver spoon in his mouth is out of sheer luck.

As a child, he studied and played, learned the ways of what it is like to be in their name. Growing up, he loved reading books from their family library. He adored building little jigsaws of 3D building models. He would join his Mamá on her daily walk, sometimes casually stopping by on Fontevielle's local pet stores. He would be bicker with his older siblings. He was carefree and had a rowdy playful side in him. Life was perfect, until one fine day.

After his 9th birthday celebration, little Haze received an anonymous gift with a painful truth. He learned of his origins— how he was an illegitimate child of his father, born of sin from a rumoured witch. Despite their indifference, Haze was welcomed and loved by his step family. However, the threat forced the Allards to relocate little Haze from their humble abode.

With a few guardians to take care of him and a new name, Alab Haze, to cover his real identity, Haze was relocated to multiple countries (namely the longest France, United Kingdom, and Singapore) before finally settling down in South Korea at age 12. He took one of his family's alias last name “ Choi ” to cover up his name completely.

Finally, in a while, he lived a normal life. But far away from his real family and far away from the life he once knew. Reality gave him an early scar.

LA VIE COURANTE ; THE CURRENT LIFE

Currently, Alab lives in a townhouse in Yongsan, Seoul, South Korea. Although his guardians live nearby to provide him with whatever he requested, he lives alone in order to experience an independent life. He has an adopted dog named Pudding as his companion.

He is now in his second year of University as an architecture student. Still wanting to experience what it is like to be normal, he also does gigs as a freelance photographer and a guitarist of a band.

Despite being away from home since childhood, Alab took lessons that would groom him into a proper gentleman of his family's name. A few times, he would attend state matters when deemed necessary.

As for his real identity, it still remains a secret to all except those from his hometown and to a selected few.

As of 230213, Alab is currently happy and content in a relationship with Kim Minjeong/Winter. Ever since they both met in one picnic event, a series of unplanned events transpired that eventually made them close and that love blossomed in his heart. Contented in being single for a long time, he never knew he could feel love again and many more all because of her.

Sideverse : Hogwarts (Slytherin)
 currently changed into Hufflepuff for withHogwarts and Lumos*

Haze was born into the Allard family, a family related to one of the Sacred 28, namely the <>. The said family is based in France. His family is of pureblood descent who owns a <> business across the wizarding world. Their family business was not only popular to wizards but to muggles as well.

Due to the status of his family, Haze grew up in a lavishing lifestyle— that of a prince. However, unlike Draco Malfoy, Haze was lowkey about his status and wealth.

When he came to Hogwarts in <year>, he was sorted into Slytherin. His ambition, resourcefulness, and cleverness being his most dominant Slytherin trait. Some students in Hogwarts would mistake Haze for a Ravenclaw for his cleverness, however he is the type of person that once he sets his goals , he will do everything to achieve it (even something as little as winning games). Depending on his mood of the day, he would either be as reserved and lowkey as the introvert he is, or as loud and rowdy as the fake extrovert.

Haze mostly excels in transfiguration, as he is a registered animagus, and charms. His personal favourite subject is ancient studies and history of magic. He detests herbology.
