

Idol plot

Y/n wasn't the most special teenager he was always just an average person with average looks and average talent. Y/n had always auditioned for big and small companies hoping to get a chance of becoming a trainee and debuting one day. He had originally discovered his love for music when he was around 10 years old and would spend hours listening to his favorite artists. When he turned 13 he started learning to sing and dance and audition for different companies. Eventually this never worked out for him as the industry didn't see anything in him besides his burning passion for music. Eventually y/n gave up on this dream and started focusing on his school life rather than his musical life, coming from a prestigious family of doctors and surgeons he eventually gave into the idea of becoming one himself under the pressure of not disappointing his family and being the son they always wanted. Eventually y/n spent the rest of his life working a 9-5 for 10 years And in those 10 years experienced losing lots of family members for odd reasons which he didn't understand and was insanely impacted from even if they made him give up on his dreams he was heading back to the hospital for an emergency call when suddenly a random person slammed into him while he was driving to the hospital resulting in his car flipping over and catching on fire and slowly dying. Although it was tragic for the people around him he was relieved to be let free of those shackles that were expectations and sadness, sure he would've had more expectations and rules if he completed his dreams of being an idol but he didn't care as long as he got to perform music in front of thousands of people for a job. Y/n would give up everything he had to complete his dream and so as he gave his dying wish of getting a second chance. In that moment y/n came face to face with what seemed to be a higher entity and it said he could get a second chance in exchange for something that something being himself. he quite literally got it at the expense of giving up part of himself along the way. Y/n would come to keep his memories and start over. You would expect y/n to get this amazing life wouldn't you? Well that's not how this worked you see y/n gave up his privileged and wealthy lifestyle and part of himself for insane talent good looks and everything he needed to be an idol and more, you see the "new y/n" grew up in an abusive household with a stay at home mom and an alcoholic dad. Having to see his siblings die from starvation and malnutrition to having to see his mother get abused and him himself getting abused it wasn't something people would consider a perfect life. Y/n was also warned to stay away from his previous self as if they met the universe would erase them because they were an anomaly that shouldn't exist considering the fact that he got a second chance at life. And so y/n would come to use this knowledge he had of the future to become the perfect idol.

Random plot

Y/n is an average boy he doesn't like to get too familiar with everyone but rather have a close group of friends to hang out with and socialize with rather than talking to everyone. He doesn't do much sports but he does play basketball and fútbol in his spare time and sometimes even joins the team (depending on how he feels that year) today was his first year in high school and he's excited to be there since he's heard so many tales and gossip about what goes on about high school. As the school year goes on he signs up for the basketball team and at one of his games he meets chaeyoung a junior who came to see how the freshman were doing since she was the basketballs team manager and looked forward to working with them. After meeting chae they immediately clicked and began a more motherly bond (which y/n liked) he didn't have anyone who he was close with this year and chae was a good start. Chae would often visit y/n and give him snacks or nag at him for not sleeping enough and almost worrying about him 24/7 eventually chae had a crush on y/n but y/n wasn't bothered by this. He didn't think they could work out considering the age diff and so he thought it would be best to let the crush die down and disappear. But this wasn't a crush, no this was love and Chaeyoung had never felt like this. She had the urge to protect y/n and take care of him. She was often jealous when girls got around him, "they would taint his pure soul" she said . This jealousy was especially Active when he was around the cheerleaders. Especially dahyun and sana. Dahyun being a sophomore and sana being a senior. They seemed to almost fit together perfectly like puzzle pieces and would often be found hanging out even when there wasn't a game taking place. Chaeyoung didn't like this one bit. Y/n had known she was a bit possessive about him but he didn't mind at all, he thought it was cute and funny that she was so motherly despite being so small. It wasn't motherly at all, it was controlling

Another idol plot

As y/n always wanted to become a idol he eventually gave up as he didn't have a good face and only had mediocre talent that could be found anywhere. Eventually one day he set out for his nightly walk to the convenience store to get his usual snack, as he walks out he hears someone whispering to themselves about a "system" being the rational human being y/n is he quickly walks past knowing that the man was probably on some-type of drug and ignored him. Over the past days y/n seemed to see the same man arguing with no one about how dangerous the system was and how unstable, eventually y/n mustered up the courage to ask him if he was okay and suddenly he sees nothing but darkness before seeing a bright light being curious he goes towards it only to see a notification bar pop up telling him to move as much as possible for "points" and then he realized he was being born again but why? He didn't know, he also didn't know why this screen of sorts kept telling him to do things for points. Now y/n has to figure out to do as a newborn baby

Kindnapped plot

In Korea "human trafficking" isn't something that's common but when the industry gets desperate they'll do anything to get what they want. Y/n was someone who was kidnapped at a young age or sold for money, he doesn't like to think of the second one. He was sold and kept in poor condition barely kept alive. Eventually he was bought for the sole reason of having a handsome face. The people who bought him groomed him into believing they were caring for him and ended up just manipulating him for their own goal and these "people" was just big hit entertainment. You see they were falling behind their competitors and needed something BIG to keep them alive and that's where y/n comes into play. They haven't trained him this hard for anything. They were planning on debuting him with their to be group "Bts". But as he goes into the world of being a idol he meets new friends and discovers how to be a regular human and begins to realize how they've stripped everything from him just for money and how they'll never truly let him go like how they promised

Soldier plot

Y/n was born an orphan who had never met his parents and had never really had any friends. When y/n turned 7 he was adopted but not by a person or a family but by the government. Once he was adopted he was immediately put into training making sure he was alone at all times to not develop any attachments. As he grew up he was sent to various missions from killing high ranking government officials to infiltrating drug organizations solo. This year he was turning 15 and was given a special task that would take years to complete and to do it he had to become a idol. The government had found out that some idols were running an illegal drug organization under everyone's noses. Y/ns job was to debut and become friends with these idols and find out who was running this cartel and apprehend them.

Love triangle plot

(Another idol plot Ik you guys are tired of those but here we go) y/n was an idol who debuted with bts way back in 2013 he was known for being popular with other idols having been seen messing around with others in award shows. Although he had been asked out a lot he mostly rejected them focusing on his career, 2 particular idols had been eyeing him for a long time. A senior and a junior of his from the same company. Ryujin being a fan of his and nayeon being friends with him. Y/n being stuck in the middle 3 years older and 3 years younger than them. Although the senior and junior don't realize it, they're competing against each other while y/n cluelessly stays in between Only wanting to focus on his music.

Space plot

The year is 2023 and a new space exploration program has been launched to discover more habitual planets. Y/n was involved in this program being 22 having trained for this for the last 3 years along with his crew comprised of sana, chaeyoung, dahyun and nayeon all being chosen for this mission. They were assigned to the farthest planet since they were the smartest and skilled team NASA had. They get to the planet only realizing that it wasn't anything like how NASA described it. They send a message back to the station requesting for a pickup. However they never got a message back.

Sports plot (2 versions)

1) y/n is a striker on his high schools team who's very good and close to becoming a d1 athlete. As his softmore summer starts he gets an injury on his leg and has to stay at the hospital for his first 4 months of the year. He later meets a girl named (insert twice member) who's also there for a injury. As his recovery starts he begins to learn to walk/run again with the help of his teammate and best friend yeji. Y/n does not want this injury to slow him down so he begins to train to try and win his high school championships for his school.

2) y/n is his schools star player known to be one of the most promising players among his age has a bright future ahead of him but it's cut short when he's told that he has a terminal illness that only allows him to live for a year before having to go into a comma where he has a 68% death rate. While he's getting treatment he meets a girl who's dying, he begins to befriend this girl since he could relate to her in many ways. Not forgetting his career he begins to practice with his best friend and teammate yeji who he hasn't told of his illness. His only last wish was to win the championship for her and pass his legacy on to someone who could accomplish what he couldn't.

Demigod plot/reincarnation

The story of y/n was not a good story it was more of a tragic story you would tell people to scare them or make them cry. Y/n was an idol, he loved music and found it to be his passion amongst all things but his life soon changed when he found out he was a demigod born of a god of war and a human. He was never told of this and was silenced when asked about his mother's side. Eventually gods grew to despise him saying that he should not exist and would send various creatures and people out to kill him which would eventually effect the human world causing a world war between the gods who accepted him and thought humans and gods could live in peace and the gods who thought they shouldn't be brought down to such a low level. This caused havoc along the world and many died from it Y/n being one of them having all his friends killed and himself being captured and tortured to death. However in his last moments he was blessed by the god of time and was sent back to the beginning before the war started. Before his life changed.. before he knew what he was.

Angst plot

Y/n had a nice life he had lots of friends and sometimes would participate in sports sometimes. He was really happy and cheery that was until his life started changing. He quickly realized the structure his family relied on, there was always a favorite no matter what. Y/n never got to be the favorite. Matter a fact he was never loved, sure he had all the things he could want but he realized he only got them to distract him from the reality. His parents didn't like him, most of the time they were ashamed of him and even told him off for not being like his siblings. Eventually he thought that maybe he'll get his time to shine and would be praised like his siblings. But he only got replaced as soon as he got the spot. This hit y/n hard knowing that his family didn't look at him the same way they did the others matter a fact they didn't even look at him. So eventually he got tired of hit and ran away from home, with nowhere to go he ran to (name) house. They were one of the few people he trusted and one of the few that would help him. You see y/n only had 1 year to live, his parents didn't know this. They never really noticed. And so him and (name) would run away together completing his bucket list before he dies.

Magic type plot

The world of fairies, trolls and demons was always thought to be only fiction. That's what twice thought so too until one day they accidentally walk through a door leading them to this unknown world, Y/N was the guardian of this world and the human world. His fate was to protect the bride in between. When twice crossed over they were immediately introduced into the beauty of the world and the ugly. Unbeknownst to them they had started a war.

There was a reason y/n was guarding this bridge. The magical races were mad that twice crossed over and argued that in turn they should be able to send people through the bridges as well, some species disliked this which caused them to argue between each other. Causing a huge war. Unbeknownst to twice and y/n their fate was about to change

Sana trainee plot

Y/n is a trainee at an entertainment label he usually heads to JYP to use their dance studio. While he's there he mostly practices alone, unbeknownst to him a certain trainee has had her eyes on him for a very long time. Sana is known for being very social but around y/n she becomes the complete opposite often getting too shy to even approach him. Eventually this crush would be even stronger once they debuted

One sided love

(There's 2 versions that could come from this plot)

(1) Y/n was apart of bts and was doing amazing despite debuting from a small company he had gotten quite the reputation for being handsome. (Insert twice member) had a big crush on him and would often try and talk to him as much as possible. Y/n however didn't like that at all, the (member) would even go as far as to say he was their ideal type on national television. This action made y/n dislike her even more as all he wanted was to be left alone

2) Y/n was an average high school student he wasn't handsome but he did have suitors, one of them being (member) they were known for being the couple of the school despite them not even dating. (Member) would follow y/n 24/7 no matter where he was despite him telling her off multiple times she wouldn't budge. Y/n had naturally grown a hate towards her since he couldn't be left alone at all

Wasteland plot

The year was 3070 and the world was in complete chaos. The world had gone into nuclear warfare long ago which caused terrible things to happen to the earths surface. Naturally humans built a resistance to nuclearradiation, while some creatures evolved into unspeakable things. Earths surface was a wasteland far from beautiful. However as a child Y/n had been taught that there was a place so green and beautiful that you could only dream of seeing it. Y/n and his friend (name) embarked on the journey to find it while facing terrible creatures and people alike.

Love triangle plot

Y/n was a sophomore in high school who spent most of his time with his friends. However one day a certain senior caught his eyes. Im nayeon had been regarded as one of the most prettiest people in the school, and just like everyone else y/n had a big crush on her. Y/n had a head start since they were neighbors and had known each other for a while. However Y/Ns best friend sana had been crushing on him since when they were children. Y/N had later been humiliated by nayeon unknowingly, he had then gone into a deep depression thinking that he lost his only chance at experiencing love while not realizing the someone who could give him that was right with him all along.

Terminal illness plot

Y/n had always been described as someone who has fun to be around and very social, over time he had gained lots of friends and had been living a good life until it was cut short. Y/N had been diagnosed with an unknown and contagious disease that caused his life to be shortened to only a year and was deemed to live the rest of his life behind a thick piece of glass so that no one else could be infected. that day he had lost everything he ever had as If all those friends had known for so long vanished as they slowly stopped visiting. Through a website he was able to meet (member) who he would begin to get close to over the course of 6 months. (Member) was his only source of human interaction. He was the happiest when talking to her

Orphan idol plot

Y/N was an orphan Inlove with music wanting to travel the world performing it. However the orphan had run out of funding and was in need of money Y/N was only 13 when this happened, he had to take up the responsibility and started working for his orphanage. working night shifts and coming home to clean up after the kids there. one day he had gotten scouted unknowingly Y/N had to choose wether to stay with the orphanage or to go chase his dreams.

Car driver plot

As (member) is walking through the streets of Seoul they hear police sirens in the distance and suddenly they see a car rushing towards her and it's at a tight turn suddenly it drifts and barely makes the turn as that happens (member) sees the person who's driving staring at them in the eye until they speed off leaving the police behind. That person was y/n a driver known for being one of the best in Seoul usually spotted seeing his signature (car).

Football plot

Y/N was born into this program that raises kids to be the best of the best of the best, no matter the cost. Y/N was raised there his entire life and The only other kid his age was yeji in fact she was the only other kid in there. The program was created to make the best football players possible. Yeji and Y/N were among the only to qualify at birth, Although they were equal in terms of age and potential they were raised completely different environments. Once they were both turned 15 they were sent to the high schools with the best teams, to see which method worked best and to see which method raised the better player they called it project “parallel” now they wait and see which player would lead their team to the top.

Mikasa and eren type plot

When Y/N was little he had gotten in a car accident causing him to lo his parents, coincidentally Nayeon was the other car that collided with Y/N. Nayeon had grown this guilt that consumed her and in response she began taking care of Y/N even if he didn't like it, he resented her. Y/N was mourning for his lost and only found peace by blaming Nayeon with it. Eventually they both developed the same love for music and even when they debuted y/n still hated nayeon and she still cared for him, even then y/n hadn't found peace

Isekai type plot

Y/N was an average teenager who loved to read one day while rereading his favorite comic book he gets transported into the book. He embarks on a journey to find a way back home, meeting his favorite characters and villains. But wait ? The main character isn't here? What will Y/N do when it becomes his duty to finish the story and return home

Spirited away type plot

The year was 1598 and South Korea had just survived the 2nd wave of the Japanese invasion Y/N was celebrating this with his friend at the festival with his friend Yeji, admiring the fireworks display. They say that New Years is when the spirit and physical world would collide. While admiring the vast display of colors they see a beautiful white fox running around with a mask, they chase it only to drop into a dark hole where no light would dare enter. That's the last thing he would remember before waking up in the year 2018, now he would have to find a way back to his time and even harder, a way to find his friend

Fighting plot

Fame, Glory and money those are things that come with being an idol. However idols aren't the same thing they used to be, they weren't musicians anymore, they were fighters. Some Humans would evolve to be faster and stronger, superhuman compared to regular humans, they were in a different league.

Fighting In the beginning this was illegal because of how dangerous it was, Until the government couldn't stop it anymore so it was allowed, with rules of course. People all over the world would host matches, for money or for other things.

Y/N had hated how the world had allowed this, his father died because of it and had left his family alone with no money and a sick family. With medical bills and overdue rent Y/N had had no choice but to involve himself in this as it was the only way to save his family

2nd chance plot

The world was in chaos, The unexpected had happened. Aliens had invaded earth seemingly for an experiment, turning it into a wasteland, infesting it with beasts. Humans eventually learned how to use the technology that came with these visitors as they used it to create weapons capable of taking on beats. That was 30 years ago, Y/N and his crew been one of the only survivors and were currently facing the kind of these “beasts” but they lost and died. That’s when Y/N was given a second chance and sent back to where it all began. The beginning of The experiment.

Discovery plot

Sumerians were one of the most advanced civilizations for their time and the fathers of modern civilization. Until the entire civilization was wiped from existence only leaving brief texts and temples. Until now no one knows what had happened to them

Sana was a failing archeologist who had been searching for years for this civilization as it was her fathers dream and was now hers. She was failing miserably. At her fathers passing she got his inheritance, spending it on their dream. Finding the Sumerians

Y/N was the son of the king, a prince predestined to rule his kingdom. A son shackled by fate and destiny to the throne only wishing to see the freedom he so sought to see along with the world

Their two worlds would collide

Savior plot

TW: this ones a little graphic As a child Y/N had been a gift to science, Why you may ask? Well Y/Ns body had been born with the ability to regenerate, It was something never seen before. And in turn Y/N had been studied by doctors till the age of 5, when he was kidnapped by a group who was selling organs and body parts on the black market. This had caused Y/N to have body parts cut off and grown back. Seemingly endlessly. Waiting for the day a he would see the light again. One fateful as he was being transported he say a girl, he didn’t know what she was doing there or why she was there but he knew she was his only way out

Anti government type plot

The world had evolved passed wars and simple feuds. Instead they had developed a new system Where they would select a person from every country and have them battle it out, however this all changed once Y/N was born. He was gifted immense strength from the heavens, so much that he would slaughter contestants every year. Until one year a contestant appeared, A small frail girl seemingly making Y/Ns Job easier, or so he thought.

Fallen god

Gods have been at war for as long as they've existed. Y/N however had no recollection of who he was or what he was doing, he had fallen from the heavens. Defending to earth, only to meet nayeon a girl willing to help him found out who he was and why he was there.

Art

Son Chaeyoung was a struggling artist, recently she had found herself lost with no sense of inspiration. One day she found murals of different locations around the world, these murals would catch a lot of attention no matter where they were found. She had been attracted to these murals, finding a sense of freedom from them. Her goal was to find this secret artist and hopefully find inspiration for her own art.

Samurai

A samurai is a warrior who fights with honor. Y/N was the next heir to the Shoni clan. He had trained his whole life to be a servant and soldier to the king, until the mongols invaded, before he could inherit his clan they invaded Japan, destroying everything. His father left to fight in the frontlines where Y/N was left to protect the princess of the Yuan dynasty. Now his duty was to protect the next heir to the throne. To protect the future if japan

War in space

Y/N was on his way home late at night, he had forgot to get food for his dog so he had to walk to the store and return. Until he had seemingly fallen into a hole, it had felt like hours until Y/N hit a metal floor only to realize he was in space, aboard a ship. He didn't realize it at first but he look out of a window only too see thousands of ships firing at each other, he could only watch the seemingly endless war. Now he has to find a way home but for now his goal is to survive

Notes for this plot

- He basically finds out that 2 races are fighting and since they don't have enough soldiers they're teleporting people from different worlds to force them to help them
- That's where he meets twice, a group who has been fighting for centuries since they have neither died and since they can't die from old age
- His motive is to find a way home or try and end the war
- Twice in this book didn't really get formed together they were just the only ones in their platoon to survive so they stuck together
- I would say maybe he gets teleported onto their ship so he has no other choice but to get to know them
- Twice are called the "valkyries" and each member is from different periods in time

Ryujin plot

Shin Ryujin was the daughter of a famous robotic engineer who was known for his advancements in technology. She had recently moved schools to a more common one randomly, that was when she caught Y/Ns eye. She was beautiful but seemed to be more of a introvert with less social skills than one of the robots her dad has made. Considering she hadn't had many friends Y/N stepped up to the job and tried to befriend her, of course he got ignored several times but he kept trying

Physic powers plot

The world was racing to make new weapons, even ones that seemed impossible. Eventually with their high budgets and advanced technology they succeeded and from there Y/Ns family was born. They had been born with physic abilities but the government had already had their fate planned out, and by then the family had realized what was happening so they decided to end everything,destroying their facilities and themselves, only leaving Y/N since he never developed any type of abilities. Of course the government had found him but he wasn't of any use so they let him live freely. All of that changed once he started maturing, that's when every thing took a turn for the worst

Shape shifting plot

A theriomorph (person who can shape shift) only existed in fairy tails and books with magic, and was perceived to be a something amazing. However not to everyone who posed the curse some even turned into humans as it was what they wished to be. Their numbers were thin since they were hunted down centuries ago, colonies still existed but very few. Y/Ns family was one that survived and had passed down the ability for generations although it was kept secret. This wouldn't affect Y/N until this ability started manifesting itself into him

Reality show type plot

Being an idol had responsibility and task, sometimes those tasks we're forced on them without options. This had happened to Y/N, his agency had told him that he was traveling back home to see his family but boy was he wrong. As soon as the plane landed his manager had disappeared and he realized he was in a foreign country. He was led to a house via notes given to him, there he would find 9 other idols who had been in the same situation. He was to live there for the next month as he had no manager or way to head home. The things that would happen in that month would be once in a blue moon

Emotionless idol

(1)Debuting is something rare, something only chosen people can do. But what happens to the people who's dreams get crushed? Well this is where our story begins, a broken mother one whom never completed her dreams. Her child from birth was not allowed to play with children nor go to school, he was homeschooled so maximize his training. His mother had made him practice non stop and even punishing him for mistakes, his Future was predestined. Through this his mother had stripped him of emotions and happiness as to be "the perfect idol", he was a shell of a human being. Through his mothers "connections" he was accepted into JYP. The trainees would often stay away as his dance skills and singing skills were full of perfection but when he stopped they could see the lonely look in his eyes.

Shapeshifter

Y/N had been chosen to balance nature and keep wildlife safe and flourishing. Through this he was gifted with the ability to become any animal he needed to be. As much as this was a gift it was a curse, protecting nature meant keeping it safe no matter what and the "gift" was slowly turning him into an animal, this went un noticed until his transformations lasted longer and longer.

School idol plot

Debuting means you're busy, like REALLY busy and that can affect your school life if you still haven't graduated. Well that's what happened to Y/N, he had recently graduated but had gotten a notice. His grades and attendance didn't make the cut despite him being an idol and being busy. He would have to repeat his senior year. This time he would have actually be there, he was alone in a school. No band mates, no managers, and no friends. He would have to be a normal teenager

See the future

Y/N had been in a "program" his parents had sold him to. Where they experimented on him and did all sorts of inhumane things. Because of these test and experiments the other kids there including Y/N developed "powers" of course most of the kids who developed them were tested on even more. However Y/N gained the ability to see his own future this caused him to see his own death multiple times but when he was being questioned he saw himself and another person together under a tree,so he lied saying he never developed anything. The government let him go as long as he kept his mouth shut. Where he was watched but allowed to go to school where he would meet a girl whom he met and saw the same future with, two people together.

Immortal Y/N

Immortality is a blessing considering you could never die by age or a outside source. Y/N was given this by Gods as a punishment, he would go on to watch his friends and family die over and over again. He would wander aimlessly across time hopefully finding a cure to his curse, he would meet and see a lot of people in his lifetime. It was now the 21 century and Y/N had been alive for over 1400 years and things had started to get worse for him as his curse began to be noticed.

Men get auctioned

Money can get you anything you could want right? Well sometimes that saying might be a little too literal. In Seoul, South Korea there's a high-school filled with Korea's wealthiest and best looking people. Y/N was one of the students here only getting in solely on his looks, well why would that matter you ask ? Well girls would have their family's buy their crushes at an auction that would be held every 2 years, Y/N had been sought after since he was exceptionally good looking even when compared to other students. His family would be offered a lot for him since their daughters wanted to buy him and his already poor family really didn't have a choice. Y/N however hated this system since it was inhumane and unreasonable, his life would be decided by the highest bidder. Ryujin and Yeji had been known to have their eye on him, even going as far as ruining other family's company's or source of income just for less competition. They would make his already difficult life a living hell

Space harvesting

Space is meant for exploration, that was humanity's goal until they thought of ways to use space. This is where Y/N is, in a space ship orbiting Mars where he grew up in only ever seeing the bright blue planet in books. The space ship was like an Utopia no crime, poverty, or anything evil. That was until Y/N saw it, what they were meant for and the reason they were on that ship, it all made sense. He always wonder why he and the others there were so handsome and well taught and cared for, it was because they were being used as vessels. High government officials would buy them and transplant their conscience as to live longer and better. Y/N quickly had to think of a plan to escape

Mythical creatures

The world had completely forgotten about their once popular myths and legends and tales of magical creatures roaming throughout the world. Y/N was just your average freshman, he had just entered highschool and was experiencing finals for the first time. He was currently doing a project in the library on mythological creatures, he opened the book to a page about dragons. However that's when everything changed and wings sprouted from his back and he had felt staticky until the entire library shut off. He ran home as quickly as he could making sure to cover the wings on his back

Highschool human trafficking

Daeil highschool was amongst the richest high schools in South Korean holding children from celebrities to high ranking government officials, Y/N however was among the population who got in by scholarship as normally they wouldn't even be allowed near the school. The school was known for its unique dorm system where 2 boys and 2 girls would live together in hope of helping students socialize and build social skills. Y/N happened to be paired with Yeji and his longtime best friend yuna he was excited for the rest of the school year however something was off to Y/N. Something didn't seem right

JoelL Today at 2:56 PM

Basically The whole school is a setup/coverup for a human trafficking ring where rich kids there pick out the “product” they want. Yeji is one of these “products” and their 4th roommate aka the other boy in the dorm was sent to choose whichever “product” he wanted/needed the school also uses dorms to hide and transport people and Y/N started questioning the school throughout the story and looking for proof or clues towards what is going on That’s also a reason boys and girls are together in a dorm so they can choose whichever “product” they want wether it be boys or girls. Y/N without knowing is one of these “products” he just hasn’t realized it but yeji has. The “scholarships” are coverups to trap innocent civilians in the schools

Sick Y/N

Y/N his whole life was babied and cared for, he always hated this. His best friend Ryujin would care for him like she was his own mother even forcing him out of doing sports or even going on “dangerous” field trips as Ryujin said. One day he decided to stop being friends with Ryujin, His life would completely change once he started doing all these “dangerous things

War plot

She looked up as the beast grabbed people running away, she quickly realized the situation she was in, she ran as fast as her legs could down the street and across an alleyway only to be met by the creature looking down from her accures the street

“What do you want from me!” She yelled as she was preparing to die knowing there was nothing she could do

Suddenly she felt an immense pressure pushing her down on the ground. She attempted to stand only to be slammed back down to the ground, she looked up to see the creature smirking as if it was enjoying it

Suddenly she saw a flash of light blind her, she looked away only to not feel the pressure on her anymore. What she saw was something that looked to be out of a book, a man with a sword standing above her as the wind pushed against the beast like two conflicting currents smashing against each other. The creature then fell to the ground trying to crawl away only to slowly give up

Uninterested Y/N

Crushes are something you don’t often hear about in the idol industry, well with Itzy’s debut let’s say Yuna earned a-lot of popularity in between idols even getting asked out regularly. Yuna being a teenager was interested in dating just not with them, that was until she met Y/N. Among all the idols he seemed the least interested in her, and that got her curious on why. She wasn’t ugly? She was fun to be around? So why didn’t he like her when all the other men did?

Highschool love AU

It’s about Y/N who’s neither popular nor unpopular he’s right in between, his junior year hit and he started gaining popularity and even suitors. This want a problem until he met yeji, a shy girl in some of his classes. Their friendship blossoms however yeji begins to develops a crush for Y/N and starts getting jealous of his friends who happen to be girls. Or every girl in fact. Around this time Y/N started getting more suitors considering how well known he was and good on the looks side

Spirit and human

The world as we know it is divided in two, one is the physical world and the other is the spiritual world . These two planes of reality have lived together in harmony, however, a little fluke happened. Yeji was a spirit, she had died in her sleep and never got the chance to experience her full life. However she later found Y/N, someone whom she slowly fell I love with. She watch him for years and did something a spirit should never do, fall in love with someone who's human. Knowing this was forbidden yeji made a deal with a higher being, so that she could be a human once again

Deaf musician

Y/N was a renowned violinist, seemingly born to play the instrument. Having been born into a family of musicians it was only fitting, this also however brought lots of expectations and burdens. However His life suddenly changed when he started slowly loosing his hearing, it wasn't noticeable at first however it slowly became clear to him when his perfect pitch started becoming imperfect. His parents quickly noticed a steady decline in his playing, and that's when they realized what was wrong, he was rushed to the hospital where he was diagnosed. His life seeming fell apart until he met her, A partner to his duet.

Roommate plot

As Y/N was entering his first year of college he had to prepare for all sorts of crazy things from party's to crazy roommates, however this year was different. This year he was roommates with a girl and it just any girl, it was shin yuna. She had a reputation for being a bad roommate since she was too carefree and Irresponsible, however she was different than what he expected, she was the exact opposite.

Olympic athletes

Lia was an Olympic athlete representing her country, she was a well known gymnast who's only goal was to bring back a gold medal for her country, however that all changed when she saw Y/N a American Olympian. One would say it was love at first sight however lia just couldn't keep her eyes off him especially after seeing him practice every morning and seeing him at the dining hall, it seemed like she couldn't make the first move

Athlete who lost their skill

Talent is a thing you're with, it's something given to you. It's not something you earn, and in Y/Ns case you could say he was very talented. People would call him a once in a generation talent, one that would put players like Messi in shame. And so this talent brought him lots of fame, even tho he was a highschool player he already had clubs lining up to sing him willing to pay any price. However this all changed his sophomore year where it all changed, it happened when he missed his championship goal for his team and after that he wasn't the same. His coach wouldn't play him despite carrying the team his freshman and sophomore years, and so his junior year was spent sitting on the bench and missing every shot he would take and just like that he was forgotten, wiped from the internet. Y/N however was frustrated and mad over this, all his talent and hard work gone in one match.