The simple Copywriting hacks you can use tonight to skyrocket your client's profits and blow your competition out of the water

I just sat there, with the phone in my hand, not knowing who to call, what to do...

Story:

I was 21, and had just started working at a copywriting firm in my city, when I got a call from my boss, telling me that they had to let me go.

He was saying that because the profits kept going down over the months and the firm had a lot of debt,

In order not to declare bankruptcy and stay running, they had to restructure.

When I heard that, I just stared at the ceiling, not knowing what to do next.

No job, no savings, couldn't afford to pay rent and was still in a shitload of debt from university.

The way I saw it, I had two options:

- 1) switch apartments, kill my dream of becoming a copywriter and getting a day job or...
- 2) take the matters into my own hands

And that's what I decided to do. Thankfully, that's when I heard about a groundbreaking book called Take their money,

That helped me learn some tricks that only the top copywriters in the world know about.

+ get my life together from the ground up, now at my own firm.
