

To whom it may concern,

It is impossible to go a day amid the current events and not acknowledge the general social unrest that is happening within the nation. The unjust systems and morals our country rely on are being exposed to the world as to how deplorable their treatment of BIPOC is, with black people disproportionately receiving the short stick. The murder of George Floyd on May 25, 2020, opened the eyes of many as to how our police system unfairly treats people. Though for some this may have been apparent for a while, nonetheless it still sparked a revolution that continues to cross the nation.

With every revolution, there comes the time for a change. Change can be simple, but more often it is a difficult and uncomfortable process. People who are used to the norms may not be willing to break their old bad habits, but it is a necessary motion to ensure a better way of life or all. While the rest of the country focuses on what is happening nationwide, we as Villanovans have the responsibility to focus on what is happening on our campus. This letter is written to you from the class of 2024, students who have barely begun to know the campus. And yet, we fear we have learned too much.

To be specific, there is a fraternity that lives within a house known as "Plantation." Anyone knows the connotation of that word, regardless of where you come from. The fact that in 2020 there still exists a notable place within campus knowledge named after such a racist institution is mind-boggling. It does not matter that it is technically off-campus, it is still operated by a fraternity underneath Villanova. This is one of many occurrences on the Instagram page that should be addressed. As of today, June 21, 2020, the blackvillanova page has not been addressed in any way by the university. This was noted on the page's Instagram story, so this is public knowledge.

Over the past few weeks, Villanova has released social media posts of their own to show solidarity with those fighting against injustice. The class of 2024's Facebook group's cover photo was black for a couple of days. Multiple affiliated Instagrams have reposted the same message, whether it be for Juneteenth or the message Father Donohue released. There have been noted measures that are supposed to be put in place to prevent racism from increasing on campus.

However, if previous occurrences are not acknowledged, how will it be possible to create a sound plan for the future? Releasing hollow statements without taking ownership of the past is in short, performative activism. We as students for the next year, two, four, or more want to know that our voices are being heard. We will not allow this to be swept underneath the rug. Circling back to George Floyd, preceded by Ahmaud Arberry, Breonna Taylor, and countless lives before them, change begins with the record of events. We already know what has happened. We want to know that the university knows what has happened.

Those who have not learned their lesson will not understand their mistakes and will, therefore, continue the cycle of ignorance. This is not a request for another simple statement that says,

“we are committed to change.” This statement is here to signify that we need Villanova University to own up to its faults and shortcomings. Acknowledge blackvillanova specifically. Scour through the page and digest each student’s pain, insecurities, and fears. Realize that the university has a part to play in almost every story on that page. Ignoring it will not make the page go away. If anything, it will bolster it any further. Therefore, we urge you to do the right thing. We are expecting it out of the institution to do so. This is the time to truly ignite change.

Signed,
