

Hey Al Shareef,

While studying the cosmetics market, your company caught my attention by its idea of making your perfumes while remaining loyal to your tradition and where you come from.

And while your website was well done and professional and you your product is very high quality, your brand isn't very known and has a relatively low follower count.

My idea was to make some ads for your business. I also noticed you're launching your new product, "Sandal", and I think I can help and make some ads for the launch of your product.

I spent the last month studying the most successful brands like Le Labo and Joe Malone and analyzed how they behave in this field and I'm ready to use my knowledge for your business.

To demonstrate the value I can bring to your company, I am willing to send one of the ads I'm going to make. Would you like me to send it?

Best regards,

Cristiano