

Soul X Kage : Courtship

Dark skies and the stars out it was a quiet night on the island , most asleep and laying down to turn in for the night but not one dinosaur in particular he was on the hunt and in search for something specific. A large dark utah that had various patterns across his scales was out and on the prowl his green eyes scanning the area as he darted down a dirt path stopping every once in awhile to sniff the air as he was trying to pinpoint a specific scent and it was that of another utah he was tracking earlier in the day it was now just about finding her. With quick dashes Kage made his way around the thick brush and large trees as he followed a dirt path that she always liked to take. Old footprints left in the dirt caught his green eyes as he leaned down to sniff them dirt blowing away as he exhaled , it was Soul he was on her trail now finding where she was the next step. Kage scanned the area before following the footprints left behind he was getting closer as he made his way further into the forest , Soul was known to travel through here and it was the best way to find her so he was on the hunt.

Kage stopped as he came into an open area as Soul's scent lingered less , his green eyes looking around as he slowed his pace, his senses on an all time high. It was a game of cat and mouse between the two Utah raptors and each seemed to be enjoying the game and Kage was the one seeking out Soul. Hidden in the darkness a pair of eyes watched Kage as a grin was across the jaws of another Utahraptor it was Soul and she was hiding from Kage watching his every move as the male utah tried to seek her out , it was a game Soul was enjoying a small chuckle leaving her as she kept still trying not to make any noise so Kage wouldn't find her.

"Oh Soul come out wherever you are, I know you're around here" he said, chuckling slightly as he looked around trees in other bushes that were around the area. Kage also had something for her he was hiding but wanted to give it to her face to face so he kept it a secret "Man she is really good" he said to himself as he stopped looking around once more. Soul held in her giggles as she found humor in Kage's hide and seek attempts before she gave in getting ready to pounce on him from the rock she was sitting on that was hidden by a large tree. The two had been following one another for most of the night leaving little clues of their presence but now it was for them to meet , Kage and Soul knew about each other and ran into one often on the island always flirting with one another but something was in the air tonight for these two raptors.

With a large pounce Soul leaped onto Kage playfully as she landed on him knocking him down with a chuckle leaving her jaws " here I am , if I never came out you would have never of found me Kage" she said nudging his muzzle playfully as she stood up off him with a smile across her face , tail swaying back and forth. Kage laughed as he laid on the ground feeling hot in the face when Soul nuzzled him before getting up and shaking his body to get rid of the dust. His green eyes landed on Soul as the two stood apart from each other. " you are a pretty good hider it seems" he said softly before remembering the thing he wanted to give to her before turning around " I have something for you , let me get it" he said before going into a bush he had stashed the object in , it was a white and black tone he had come across that made him think of her as it matched her beautiful scale color. Taking it in his claws he came back out to Soul who was watching him carefully with a tilted head “Oh really? For me” she said to Kage as she stood back awaiting his return from the brush.

Kage soon opened his claws approaching Soul as he showed her the stone putting it on the ground “It made me think of you and I thought it would be perfect for this night” he said shyly stepping backwards awaiting what she would do with it , hoping that she would like it and accept him maybe all that flirting would pay off hopefully. Soul laid eyes on the beautiful stone that matched her scales and she smiled softly “it's perfect Kage” as she picked it up in her claws looking over it as it shined in the night , this was the first time he had ever given her anything and this rock meant so much to her. Soul looked at Kage and smiled before running past him nudging his side playfully with the stone in her claws “ Come I want to show you something as well” as she cooed for him to follow her , Kage nodding and quickly following behind her as she dashed through the brush onto a open cliff that hung over the ocean side the open dark night sky filled with stars.

Kage slowed down as he had caught up with Soul who was now sitting in the grass close to the edge with the rock she had gotten from him , this was the place she hung out when she was alone and it was time to show Kage it as she kept it hidden from most. “Come join me Kage” she said softly looking up at him as he made his way over to her his green eyes laid on her.

“Wow this place is beautiful Soul” he said sitting down next to her before feeling a soft nuzzle under his chin as Soul got closer to him purring before looking up at the stars. “Isn't it , I think it's a perfect place” she said looking down at the rock in her claws. She had always had feelings for Kage but never opened up about it and was quick to flirt back with him whenever they ran into each other and this time it felt special and not just some flirty behavior , love was in the air between the two and gifting and showing one of a special place was all just a added bonus. Kage looked at Soul as she studied the rock he had given her as it seemed she really liked it “I hope you like it Soul I picked it just for you” he added quickly before looking ahead of him watching the ocean water move slowly.

Soul smiled as she listened to Kage and nodded before bringing the stone close to her , leaning over to Kage and licking the side of his face as she smiled and rubbing her snout on his “ I will always keep it with me, it's from you” she added before looking up and watching the stars in the dark sky. The bonding was complete between the two as they laid down to rest nuzzled and cuddled into one another the black and white stone still in Soul's claws in the grass. Soon becoming morning the two raptors woke up yawning and licking on another as Soul stood before grabbing the stone once more and waiting for Kage to stand, it was time to find a den that they could call home and raise their soon to be offspring that were to come in the next weeks , Hunting and gifting to strengthen their bond so it was strong for when the hatchlings finally hatched but to do that they needed a good place to nest.

Kage yawned before catching up to Soul still seeing she had the stone in her claws as they moved back into the forest now on the hunt for a nesting place, their bond was just starting out and with this they would continue to cuddle and exchange licks and purrs to one another. The two soon stopped seeing a small den that could fit both of them and it would be a cozy spot to build a nest in, both Kage and Soul entering and laying down together as they sat cuddling close to one another necks intertwined exchanging coo's and purrs as they sat with smiles across their jaws the black and white rock glimmering in the light. A strong bond would form between the two as they had now found a spot to raise their future young , spending time with one another was key and they planned on doing just that a bright future for these two seemed close and both seemed excited for that to come but now it was to get building for the two new love birds.