[slow and somber music starts to play]

Welcome, my dearest audience, to The Melancholy, We Weave, a tragic horror actual play anthology using the game Quietus. Each chapter of bespoke horrors follows different and unique characters with backstories, dripping with sorrow, heartache, and grief. Each character broken and hurting from a loss or trauma that they so desperately want to push past...

To recover from...

To have some solace from...

But what happens when they are at their weakest? When they are at their most vulnerable? When they are alone and an unknown terror comes knocking at their door?

Turn the page, won't you? Dearest audience and find out for yourself.
