Before the release of the album, the online cover was revealed along with a video countdown. As the album was released, Twice's official Twitter account changed their logo and header to match the 2nd concept of the comeback. An interview was also posted, featuring the girls talking about the comeback, their favorite songs, the MV filming, and the meaning of the lyrics.

Two hours after the release, Twice had a Special Live (Vlive) where they talked about More & More, the songs, and other comeback-related topics while also in a set that was reminiscent of the MV garden. They also performed the full choreography of the title track for the first time and gave a live performance of "Sweet Summer Day".

After they wrapped up the vlive showcase, the Twice members also participated in the Spotify listening party with Onces by typing a few messages into the chat box. However, the chat server was neither prepared for the sheer numbers of Onces present for the listening party nor the amount of photos the members wanted to share. You can find the photos all in this thread.

They also released the video of the full group #moreandmoretwice challenge on their Official TikTok page, as well as unit and individual footage of the chorus section of the dance.

Many idols showed their love, interest and cheers for Twice and their comeback. Three CLC members (Tzuyu's friend Elkie, Seungyeon on the left of the video and Seunghee in the middle) watching the MV during a vlive; Red Velvet's Yeri showed her support with a screenshot of the song on her Instagram; Sunmi shared a CandyBongZ emote on Instagram; Yubin watched it several times and showed her love for the track "Firework"; Stray Kids' Hyunjin posted a cute message and later on 3Racha, the rap unit, sung "More & More" during a vlive; Bada listened to More & More daily; Itzy's Lia recommended the song and said that all of Itzy watched the MV as soon as it was released (see Ryujin and Yuna listening to it); (G)-Idle's Minnie sang the title track during a vlive.

Several of the producers showed their excitement after the release by posting tweets about it, like KLOEmusic. MNEK shared in an interview how he worked on the finalization of "More & More" during quarantine. You can find on the YouTube channel "Wonnie The World" the instrumental of "More & More" as well as some of the b-sides for the album, like Make Me Go written by BBDiamond.

To assist international fans with the fanchant, a cheering guide in romanized Hangeul was released on JYPE Fans. If you bought the album, you can also check here to see all the photocards possible for this comeback.

Due to COVID-19, Twice won't be having the usual fansign events this time around, but will instead be having video call events through Kakaotalk facetime starting on June 20th at 30 Onces for each event.

You can find special photos and selcas from Vlive x Dispatch through two Google Drive links (selcas/photos). If this SBS webpage surpasses 150k views, they will post more pictures.

Fun fact, Benjamin (the horse from the MV) had a post on his Instagram about the comeback.

Also, Onces were concerned about why Jeongyeon didn't have any fancams posted for the music show performances they completed this past week. She later stated on Vlive that she and the company asked the broadcast stations not to upload them for health reasons.

A controversy started when artist Davis McCarty posted about the multicolor sculpture in the MV, claiming that it looked similar to his own artwork. JYPE made a statement saying that the company that filmed and created the set of the MV would take care of this issue. Nonetheless, JYPE also confirmed that they will be more careful for future MV filmings.

Note that even in these happy times following the long-awaited comeback, JYPE is working behind the scenes to take legal action against malicious rumors spreading online.

Twice started their promotions on music shows, which you can find here. They posted on Instagram about how much they miss Onces.
