SUMMARY OF THE BOOK “FINAL FANTASY UNLIMITED AFTER”

Opening at the last five minutes the final episode, Lisa fires the MaGun, summoning GunDragon to fight Chaos SwordDragon. After that Lisa joins the Hayakawa as they make a run for it, knowing all hell is going to break loose. They found Comodin and Chobi, alive and well, arriving on Sylvia, as they got out of Guadium. Back with Kaze and Makenshi (Inside their respective summons), Makenshi/Chaos Sword Dragon struggles to contain the Earl as Kaze/GunDragon attacks. The two summons battle each other, destroying themselves as well as most of Gaudium. After searching, Chobi only found Kaze's red earring which Lisa take with saddness. Without warning, Wonderland is reducing into to vast empty space. Joe and Mary revealed that because the Earl/Chaos is no more, Wonderland is imploding. Without warning, the Earl/Chaos Tyrant, dying from the attack, attempted to destory Silvia...

Later, on a beach, Ai wakes up. She sees Fabula, who gives her a encouragement before fading. Ai wakes up as does Yu, their parents, & Lisa. They realized they're back on their own world. The Hayakawas decided to go to their house, inviting Lisa. But as they go, Lisa took out her communicator, but decided not to use it. Joe and Mary invite her in for some tea and chat to her about her father while Ai and Yuh change their attire. But without warning, an armed squad invades the house with sleeping gas. Meawhile, Gun Dragon emerges from the Pillar of Darkness and plunges to the bottom of the sea. The Japanese government sends a submarine and other ships looking for the creature...

We open to Moscow, Russia. Lisa is coming down the hallway when she spoted an odd obelisk in the courtyard, one she has never seen before. She inquires a staff lady about it, and is told that these obelisks have been erected around the world as a memorial to the Day of Conjuction. Lisa later is scolded by her superior for not contact them immediately upon returning from Wonderland. Lisa explained that she only wanted the twins to have some time they can spend with their parents. Her superiors don't like it, but they allow Lisa some time to rest, since she has had such a rough time. She asks if she can see Ai and Yu, but she is told that her duties concering the Hayakawas are done. The twins woke up to find themselves in an isolation ward with little more than two beds. As Ai screams her head off, Yu pondered Lisa's last words during the gas attack, "I haven't contacted them, I swear!". At another part of the building was the Magun, viewed by a tall man in a suit...

Meanwhile, Kaze lies at the bottom of the ocean, as last seen in FFU:Before. Spirals of Soil appear around him and take the shape of Lou Lupis, who told Kaze that she no longer hates Omega, as Omega iwas also a victim. She tells Kaze that Chaos is not yet destroyed. The spirals of Soil then take the shape of Moogle, who tells Kaze that there is no holiday for the Unlimited and that he must continue as more Moggles appear and offer their help. GunDragon then awaken and sends out a shockwave that disables the submarine investigating him. ...

Lisa sits on a bench in the courtyard of C2 HQ, thinking back of the time she spent with Ai and Yu in Wonderland. The tall man approacheed her, swinging his keychain as he walks. At first, Lisa thught he was her friend Dolk, but he denies it and identifies himself as the Wonderland Consultant Soljashy. He offered to take her to Dr Hayakawa and his wife, and also to the twins, even though Lisa has been forbidden to see them. The Sea of Japan splits and Kaze, surrounded by spirals of Soil, walks on dry earth. He reaches Lake Baikal, where the military decide it might be a nice idea to attack him. However the missiles of their attack helicopters prove useless against Kaze, and he starts shooting down chopper after chopper with his red Shotgun. Even tanks are destoryed by his weapon.

As Lisa follows Soljashy through the complex, she discovers that she is mysteriously granted access to the laboratory where Joe and Mary Hayakawa are working. She speaks to them and learns that they are being forced to continue their research there. Lisa urges them to escape with her, but they say they cannot leave their fellow scientists there. They ask Lisa to take care of Ai and Yu for them, and tell her with a bitter smile that as long as they do their research, C2 wouldn't lay a finger on them. Lisa ironically begs them not to smile when they are sad, saying, "There is nothing as painful as a smile at a time like this."

Meanwhile, the military launches a missile at Kaze, and though he is protected by the Soil and he does shoot down the missile, its wide explosion engulfs him and when the smoke clears, there is nothing to be seen.
Soljashy offers Dr Hayakawa a business card with his phone number on it, telling him to call if there is anything he needs. Lisa leaves the laboratory and lets Soljashy guide her to the part of the building where the twins are kept. On the way there, Soljashy tells Lisa that it is sad that she works so hard and yet no one sees her pain. Lisa remembers Dolk telling her the same thing, but Soljashy insists that it is merely a coincidence.

Soljashy leads Lisa to the ward where the twins are kept. He warns her that everything she says in there will be recorded. "I don't care," Lisa replies and enters. Inside, she embraces Ai and Yu and tells them that their parents are OK. She explains to them that they are now in Russia, brough here by a peace preservation company called C2. She shows them her ID and says that she herself works for C2. Lisa revealed that she and her team have long been watching the twins, disguising themselves as clerks, the man reading his paper on the bench, etc. Ever since the day their parents disappeared. Waiting for their parents to contact them. It was Lisa's shift when Ai and Yu boarded the Ghost Train that night, and so she decided to follow them. Outside, Soljashy gets a call on his cell phone, informing him of Kaze's apparent defeat...

"Liar!" Ai exclaims, and accuses Lisa of getting close to them just so she could abduct their parents. Ai and Yu feel betrayed by Lisa, and it seems nothing she says can bridge the emotional gap between them. Soljashy pops his head into the room and tells the children not to be so hard on Lisa. Ai is, of course, innately suspicious of this man, and asks him if he is Lisa's boyfriend. "Is that what it looks like?" he asks. He informs them that everything said in this room is recorded, and that he himself will also get in trouble. This is when Kaze reappears, blasting his way into the research wing of C2 HQ. He is protected by the spirals of Soil surrounding him, rendered invincible.

In the C2 security department, we meet three staff members Michaelov, Zatopek and Ridchenko, as well as their director. They track Kaze's progress through the complex, speculating as to what he could be after while their guards are defenceless against this ghostly invader. Michaelov contacts what they call the Privy Council, a party the C2 staff seem very suspicious of, and they are told how to handle the situation. Lisa, Soljashy and the twins feel the tremors of Kaze's attack. Yuh realizes that this might be their chance to get their parents and escape! He tells Lisa to come with them, to which Ai objects (the poor thing is still mad at her). They are out in the hallway when Soljashy's cell phone rings. Ai and Yu recognize the melody of his ringtone as something Yu identifies as "One Week". It turns out the one calling is Dr Hayakawa. Ai and Yuh grab the phone.

Joe tells Ai and Yu to escape on without them. The scientists are being moved to a classified location. Ai and Yuh are reluctant to leave their parents after finally being reunited, but Joe and Mary promise that they will meet again. Joe and his wife are caught by a guard and the phone call is terminated. Soljashy says they must hurry if they wish to escape.

Kaze blasts into the laboratory where his Magun is being kept in a glass case. He heads to retrieve the Magun, but the voice of the C2 director speaks to him through speakers, telling him that the case of the Magun is boobytrapped – if Kaze breaks the glass, the entire lab will self-destruct. If Kaze wishes to live, he must surrender, the director says. He can have his Magun back, but Kaze himself will become their research specimen. Kaze doesn't like what he's hearing, so he pulls out his Shotgun and shatters the glass...

Lisa, Soljashy, Ai and Yuh (having rescued Chobi and Poshepocket from the containment lab) are running down the hallway when the laboratory explodes nearby. Fire comes rushing at them through the windows but Lisa uses her Kigen Arts to protect them from it. The director, Michaelov, Zatopek and Ridchenko observe the wreckage by camera and are shocked to find Kaze alive and well, the Magun equipped on his arm again. The twins also spot Kaze and hurry over to hug him. Lisa and Chobi also approach. The twins are excited about Kaze always showing up to save them, even in the Outside World. Soljashy steps up.

"Who is this man?" the director wants to know, pointing at Soljashy on the screen. Immediately, the C2 staff suspect him to be working for the Privy Council. The computer, however, identifies Soljashy as the Wonderland Consultant. Soljashy formally introduces himself to Kaze, even offering him a business card. Kaze, however, is not impressed and fires his Shotgun at the guy without hesitation, stating that he "reeks of Chaos". Soljashy does a series of graceful backflips, but one of Kaze's bullets hits his keychain and sends the attached medal flying. Lisa scoops it up from the ground and reads the inscription. "From L to D".

Annoyed at Kaze's discourtesy, Soljashy goes on a rant about how right Pist and Oscha were about Kaze's short temper. Ai and Yuhpiece together that Soljashy must be one of the Earl's Tyrant's surving henchmen. Kaze wonders if this means Makenshi is also still alive. C2 security guards arrive on the scene and demand to know Soljashy's intentions. Lisa warns the guards that Soljashy is working for Chaos, but they do not understand.

Soljashy tosses his business cards like ninja stars at the guards' weapons and vehicles, which start to mutate, causing the guards to drop them and run for cover. The weapons and vehicles combine to form one big monster, which Soljashy creatively dubs "CarGuns" It appears Ai and Yu activate the Magun for Kaze. Chobi goes into Ciel mode and takes Lisa and the twins into the sky before CarGuns opens fire on Kaze. Soljashy is curious to know how Kaze will summon if he has no bullets. However, to Soljashy's shock, as Kaze holds out his hand, the Moogles' Soil crystalizes into three bullets above his palm. Kaze summons Tri-Disaster, which destroys CarGuns. The security guards as well as the C2 director and staff are amazed at Kaze's display of power. Kaze simply walks away....
****

This post has been edited by fractyl2: Jun 12 2006, 10:31 PM

Part 2
*****
In an expensively decorated room somewhere sits a bunch of cigar-puffing "gentlemen" watching Kaze's summoning on a monitor. These men are the Privy Council, one of whom was one of C2 officials who interrogated Lisa is also here. He addresses one of the gentlemen as Tsar Pacifist. Lisa and the twins escape on "Ciel" Chobi to the rural parts of Russia, where they rest at a granary while Chobi hunts earthworms Lisa tells Ai and Yu a little about Dolk, the man she knew long ago before he began to call himself Soljashy. Dolk was a clumsy man who often lost his keys, so she gave him a keychain (with a medal sayin "From L to D") as a birthday present as a token of respect and gratitude. And so that he would stop coming to her room saying he had lost his keys again.

Though she does not mention everything to the twins, Lisa's trip down memory lane reveals how Dolk used to cover for her when she was a newbie at C2. Dolk was there to comfort her the first time she hurt someone using her Kigen Arts and had a breakdown, and he told her that this power was not meant to injure. What Lisa tells the twins is enough for the local romance enthusiast Ai to figure out that the two of them were in love. The team wonders why, if Dolk works for Chaos now, he would let them escape. Yu decides to go back to Wonderland to defeat Chaos, but when Ai asks him how he expects to do that, he has no reply. Just then, Kaze approaches them. The twins are delighted to have Kaze back in the party, and Lisa gives him back his red earring.]

Lisa: This is important to you, isn't it?
Kaze: Aura…

Soljashy arrives at the half destroyed fortress of Gaudium, having travelled there through a dimensional tunnel in a subway train that differs a bit from Elizabeth in appearance. With Earl Tyrant dead, Herba assumed command, turning Guadium into a big flower garden. After chatting with Oscha about recruiting new members for Gaudium, Soljashy has an audience with "Princess Herba", who now has a huge blossom-kinda-thing on her head. After offering some chocolates and sweet words to the late Earl Tyrant, Pist and Fungus, Soljashy proceeds to have his project approved by Herba despite his allerigic reaction to the flowers.
While this occuras, Oscha proceeds to create Crux-2, sending her to find and punish Crux for her betryal.

Makenshi woke up to find himself in bed in one of Silvia's cabins. He is weak and wrapped in bandages, and is shocked to discover that he has lost the power of the Mist from the last fight. Makenshi struggles to his feet and staggers out into the corridor, where Miles rushes to his aid and explains that they found him on the ice continent where Silvia had crashed. At the main bridge, Cid and Knave are trying to puzzle out what's happening in Wonderland. Floating continents are popping up like flowers as more worlds are destroyed. Knave says they must strike down Chaos at the core, but Cid speculates that their own hearts are that core. Chocobaba and Chocoimo, having made themselves at home in Silvia before it had even left the Comodeen base, keep interrupting the conversation with their silly trademark phrases, "or so the rumours say" and "or something like that".

At last, Cid loses his temper with the eldery sisters and asks them what they are doing on the bridge during a meeting. Offended, the old ladies threaten to go out into the cold and freeze to death. Cid's rant is interrupted when Makenshi walks into the room, assisted by Miles. They tell him to get some rest; they won't let him fight alone anymore. However, Makenshi insists that their fighting will only feed Chaos more.

Knave: Then what are we supposed to do!
Makenshi: Nothing. I shall… take care of it…

Meanwhile, Lisa has taken Ai, Yu and Kaze to a secret Mafia hideout under a factory in Russia, to see an old friend named Natalia Bornakov. Ai and Yu are intimidated by the woman and her sturdy bodyguards, but Natalia claims that she's always led a righteous life. Lisa talks to Natalia about getting transport while Natalia munches on her Piroshiki. Natalia, pointing at Chobi, says that it would be tough to find a vehicle big enough to carry that "overgrown chicken". Chobi thinks it's getting a treat and takes a bite at the Piroshiki, provoking some colourful language from Natalia. Ai apologizes and offers to buy Natalia new "curry bread". Natalia says it's called Piroshiki and offers some to the twins, Lisa and Kaze (who just stares at her). Natalia reveals to Lisa that she, Ai and Yu have been declared wanted, probably by C2. She prepares a safe house of hers where Lisa and the twins can stay until the next morning, when she'll have their lift pick them up.

Ai and Yuh are still asleep on the king size bed in the master bedroom (Chobi curled up beside the bed) when Lisa gets up from her bed in the guest room, dons her gown and heads for the living room to have a chat with Kaze where he sits staring out the window. Lisa tells Kaze that her mother was from China, and her father here in Russia. She was taken at a very young age to China was where she grew up and learned the Kigen Arts. She only came back to Russia when her mother passed away, so she doesn't really know her father at all. Kaze shows no response and Lisa apologizes for boring him with her personal history. She asks him about his world, if there was also this kind of scenery (he's staring out the window, remember?), but Kaze says no. Delighted at having gotten a reaction from Kaze, Lisa starts explaining to him that she is glad he's with them and she wants him to remember the time he spends in their world, to help fill the void in his heart. She tells him it's sad that he does nothing with his life but fight. Kaze's memory jumps between Aura, Moogle and Lou and he is about to say something when Chobi comes down the stairs looking for food.

Meanwhile, in Wonderland, Makenshi is standing atop an ice peak thinking about his brother when he spots a flying continent carrying what looks like a city of crystal. "…Misteria…!?" Cid and Makenshi investigate the ruins of Makenshi's world Misteria, but of course there is no one around. Makenshi is surprised to find a fragment of his world here. Cid asks him if this destruction is Kaze's doing, but Kumo says "no" with a bitter smile of self-mockery. Makenshi explains to Cid that he and Kaze had been fighting illusions; they had been made to fight one another by Chaos. And by the time he discovered the truth, it had been too late. Cid says that means this was the work of Chaos.

Makenshi: …Aura was a beautiful person.

Cid: Huh? What?

Makenshi: …Never mind…

Cid wonder why Chaos would start a war between Winderia and Misteria's worlds instead of just destroying them like all the other worlds. This is when Makenshi told Cid of the term "Unlimited". Makenshi, no longer feeling like talking, asks Cid to leave him alove for a while and walks off. Near the edge of the continent, Makeshi finds the grave of his brother, Madoushi. Makenshi kneels at the gravestone and addresses his brother. He renews his determination to stop Chaos. Then, Crux finds him and gives him a Omega crystal she has discovered. Suddenly, Wonderland starts warping.

Soljashy has begun his project. After making a brief speech about how wonderful it is to conquer the world with the press of a key, Soljashy has initiated a system that converts every aspect of Wonderland to Wonderland writing and sends it to the Outside World via the earth's technology. Computers, phones, cars, televisions, even vending machines display these Wonderland characters and go crazy all over the world. People panic in every country and capitol.

Ai, Yu and Lisa are following the news on the television in the safe house when a car stops at the front, and they rush out the front door to meet Natalia and her two bodyguards Alexei and Borisov. Natalia shows them her desktop computer, which has transformed into some kind of half-monster which she held in a large cage in the boot of her car.

Natalia: Is this the Wonderland you were goin' on about?

Natalia and her bodyguards tell Lisa and the twins that Moscow, Washington, Tokyo and others are under martial law and preparing to make war upon the rampant machines. Lisa says this is a bad idea, it will only cause Chaos to grow. Natalia's mutated PC escapes from its cage and Alexei and Borisov open fire on it with their handguns, to no avail. Kaze appears in the porch and blows up the monster with his Shotgun (winning himself a wink from Natalia 0_0). Ai and Yu harden their resolve to go to Wonderland and defeat Chaos, and ask Kaze to join them. Meanwhile, the military is fighting a losing battle against the rampaging machines.

C2 is also in chaos. Michaelov again contacts the Privy Council, and his fellow staff members Zatopek and Ridchenko are shocked to hear what the Privy Council has to say. Apparently, everything is going according to plan. Another staff member storms into their office to tell them something is happening to the obelisk.
And indeed, the obelisk (the one Lisa spotted in the courtyard earlier) is transforming into another Pillar of Darkness. This, in fact, happens to obelisks around the world, and the primary one in the Sea of Japan grows larger and larger, sinking the observation ships around it. The seas of the earth turn the colour of Chaos and the continents of Wonderland surface from it. Amidst the madness, Crux Number 2 also crosses into the Outside World. Makenshi and the original Crux watch from Misteria as Tokyo steadily approaches. Cid shows up in his small aircraft Steffany to take Makenshi back to Silvia.
****

Part 3, Final Part.
*****
Natalia leaves the safe house again. Ai and Yu tell Kaze that if they all stick together, they may be able to do something against Chaos. Lisa promises to protect the twins and to lead them to their parents no matter what. Chobi also joins in their enthusiasm. Poshepocket, however, is fast asleep, earning it a scolding from Ai. A phone rings. Poshepocket coughs up a black telephone.

Ai: When did you eat that?

She answers the phone, but when she hears Soljashy speaking she surrenders the receiver to Lisa, who now addresses him as Dolk. Soljashy continues to vigorously deny his identity as Dolk. Soljashy explains that all he has done is convert Wonderland to data and send it to this world – from there, the people of the Earth have taken care of summoning Chaos themselves. Soljashy suggests that Lisa visits Red Square in Moscow, where she might "see something spectacular". Lisa tells everyone to get into the vehicle Natalia left them and heads for the city of Moscow. The military's attempts to stop the walking machines prove ineffective, and in fact their bullets become one with the clusters of machinery. In every major city, as the machines reach the obelisk, they begin to merge onto with it, eventually forming a super-gigantic monster called Object Nova.

Maakenshi and Cid watch the scene from Misteria as the same happens in Tokyo. Cid tells Makenshi to come back to Silvia with him – he believes the Earl Tyrant and his people might still be around and he wants to find them. Makenshi remains however, and asks Crux to search for Gaudium. Meanwhile, on the highway, Lisa, the twins, Chobi and Kaze come to a roadblock. Yuh remembers that they are designated suspects and says they'll be caught by the guards! Ai suggests they make a breakthrough like they always do on TV, but since they don't know if these guards have yet been told about them, Lisa stops the car.

A guard approaches and peeps into the window, though he does not seem to recognize Lisa, Ai or Yu. However the commanding officer steps forward and says, "Excuse me. Aren't you Agent Pacifist?" Lisa tells Ai and Yu to hold on tight and she accelerates. The car speeds away and smashes through the blockade (way to go, Lisa!). The guards take their aim but are told not to fire by their commanding officer, who says it's an order from C2. Proceeding to Moscow, Lisa's car is the only one of the road. Ai is very impressed with having made a forced breakthrough and tells Lisa she has to do it again, an idea Yu doesn't much fancy. Lisa, surprised that the guards aren't firing, suspects Soljashy's interference.

Lisa and the others find the city of Moscow abandoned, like a ghost town. They see the enormous Object Nova blocking the sun above and realize that everyone must have fled. The large, empty city reminds Ai and Yu of Wonderland. Lisa tells the twins that she thinks Soljashy is not alone in this – she suspects there are humans willingly cooperating with Chaos. Meanwhile, a limousine desposits Joe and Mary Hayakawa at some noble's mansion. The bewildered couple is led to a large room with expensively dressed gentlemen and a long table set with silver tableware. Tsar Pacifist invites them to sit down and eat while they discuss the future of their children...and his own daughter, Lisa Pacifist.

Lisa drives her team to Red Square, and brakes the vehicle just before a dark abyss opens up in front of them. A subway train verically appears from it and Soljashy disembarks. He barely has time to say hi, as Kaze has his Shotgun drawn and is already firing away. Lisa tries to stop Kaze from firing and tells him not to shoot Dolk. Soljashy introduces them to Object Nova, and boasts that he has one of these in every country. Ai taunts Soljashy and tells him that they're not gonna be scared so he can't make Chaos grow anymore. Yu declares that they'll fight Chaos. But Soljashy says they are misunderstanding that he's not here to fight. He kneels before Ai and Yu, telling them he is bringing them to their rightful place as the rulers of the new Wonderland being created for them, Chaos' children.

Lisa warns the puzzled Ai and Yu not to let him confuse them. This provokes Soljashy and he tosses a business card at Lisa, but Kaze shoots it to pieces. Battle ensues. Lisa tells Ai and Yu to get away, Chobi goes Ciel and takes the twins to the sky. Soljashy dodges Kaze's bullets with ease while Chobi struggles to dodge the tentacles of Object Nova. During the fight, Lisa holds up his severed keychain and says this is something she gave to him. Kaze interrupts, however, telling her that Soljashy is not human.

Above, Chobi successfully evades Object Nova's tentacles. Ai loses her temper and scolds Soljashy for messing with Lisa's heart. Ai and Yuh decide that returning Soljashy to Dolk will be their way to fight Chaos. However, their resolution triggered the Magun, which Kaze aims at Soljashy despite Lisa's protest.
In Silvia, Cid detects the Soil activity and Comodeen realizes that Kaze must also be in this world. Kaze thaws his Magun, but Lisa steps in the way. In tears, Lisa tries to get through to Dolk, which seems to have an effect on Soljashy. He appears to transform back into Dolk for a moment, begging Lisa to kill him. Lisa says that ending his life will not accomplish anything, but as she comes to take his hand, Soljashy grabs her arm and uses her as a human shield against Kaze. Turns out he's been putting up an act.

Object Nova descends, causing a great wind, and Chobi takes refuge on the ground. Soljashy announces that he will now perform the intended task of his project, having the Object Novas attack the world in each country simultaneously. He is convinced that Kaze will not be able to stop all of the Object Novas in time. Object Nova charges its weapons. However, Kaze is not to be toyed with. He summons Knights of the Round, a huge knight that slaughters Object Nova and then splits into thirteen more swordsmen that scatter from Moscow to vanquish the Object Novas in each of the other countries. One of them speeds past Crux. Makenshi watches from Misteria as a Knight slaughters the Object Nova in Tokyo, and he realizes that Kaze is also in this world and fighting Chaos.

Elsewhere, Joe and Mary Hayakawa are dining with Tsar Pacifist and several other gentlemen who seem to be holding the same title. There seems to be an older gentleman at the end of the table who is really the one in charge here, because Mr Pacifist reports to him that the Soljashy's plan has failed. The man is not surprised, though, and says that it is natural that Kaze has come to this world to destroy, as he is the "god of destruction". Joe asks Mr Pacifist what they could possibly gain from all this madness. Pacifist replies that this is a treaty to ensure that humanity survives.

Back in Red Square, Soljashy still staring in amazement at Kaze's magnificent summon when Kaze pulls out his Shotgun and shoots the salary man in the head, sending him flying and releasing Lisa. Ai and Yu tend to Lisa. Soljashy's glasses are broken and blood runs down the side of his head – however the blood is black and throbs like a separate organism! Upon seeing the blood, Lisa realizes that Soljashy really is Dolk no more. Consumed by grief and anger, she uses her Kigen Arts to attack Soljashy, feeding Chaos in the process. In Gaudium, Oscha notices a lonely Egret Orchid blossoming in Herba's flower garden.

Ai and Yu shout at Lisa that the Kigen Arts are not meant for attacking and that she must stop feeding Chaos. Lisa is shocked to discover that even anger feeds Chaos. Soljashy throws more business cards at her, but Kaze steps in the way and destroys them. Kaze turns his Magun on Soljashy, who quickly sticks a business card to his subway train, which turns into the monster Metroidon. Kaze summons Hades, which destroys Metroidon with ease. Soljashy leaps away from the explosion and lands on top of a tower fence, muttering to himself about the rapid rate at which Kaze suddenly summons.

Kaze senses something and looks up. So does Lisa and Soljashy. Makenshi dives from the sky and, to Lisa's horror, chops off Soljashy's arm, sending the salary man tumbling to the ground. Cid comes landing Steffany and checks on Lisa and the twins. When he sees Soljashy, he reveals that Soljashy was the one who requested that he builds Elizabeth/Ghost Train, and also the Isabel Wonderland Clock around Chobi's neck. Soljashy scolds Makenshi, takes his severed arm and leaps into his briefcase, which disappears. Makenshi stands at the clock of the Spasskaya Tower; Kaze stands below him in Red Square.

Kaze: white Cloud...
Makenshi: Do you still desire to settle our battle?

[Lisa, Ai and Yu realize that there is no stopping the two of them now. Kaze insists on finishing his battle with Makenshi. All they can do is watch as the inevitable showdown begins. Sensing a change in the Maken-wielding Makenshi, Kaze brings out the blades of his driller and uses them as a sword to block Makenshi's attack. Kaze realizes that the unmasked Makenshi has lost his Mist. There is no meaning to their battle if both of the two conflicting energies, Soil and Mist, are not present. This way, Chaos will not be destroyed either.

Kaze: White Cloud...Recover your Mist. Then we'll settle everything.
Makenshi: Do you wish to destroy every world and every living being here and now!? Aura… would not have wanted that…

Kaze disappears withot a answer along with the winding Soil. Having lost track of Kaze, Lisa and the others run over to support the wounded Makenshi. Cid speculates that "Soil" and "Mist" – the "spiral" and the "straight line" – and Chaos are intergeral part in existence. That perhaps the reason for Kumo and Kaze to keep on fighting lies herein. Silvia flies over to Red Square. Lisa and the others are finally reunited with the people of Comodeen. Now with the assistance of Makenshi and Crux, they take off in search of Gaudium. Lisa uses what used to be the networks of C2 Organization to try and learn the whereabouts of Joe and Mary Hayakawa. In the dark city, the kind intelligence staff members cooperate with Lisa "in order to stay alive". However the whereabouts of the Hayakawas remains a mystery.

Strange rumours begin to spread among the people of the world. Having merged with Wonderland, Earth is filled with drifting space-time splinters of worlds destroyed and taken in by Chaos. These splinters are called "floating islands". Amongst these islands, gigantic flowers have popped up. It is said that those who see these flowers will someday be saved from the madness that glooms the world. In their hearts, people of a despairing world begin to believe this illusion. The sky-flying flowers of Gaudium become a symbol of hope to the people. As a result of Soljashy's recruiting and Herba's inspection of his documents, people willing to pledge their loyalty to Chaos begin to collect. The existence of candidates from so many of the weird and wonderful world stratums becomes a threat to Soljashy's social position. Over and above that, Oscha handpicks several new Lords of Gaudium to carry on the fight in the front lines.

Crux finds and brings a newspaper to Silvia. A photograph of Gaudium appears in it. Lisa and the others are shocked to read in the article that Gaudium has become a symbol of salvation to the people of Earth. Knave comes up with a plan to attack the Pillar of Darkness and thus summon Gaudium, so they can destroy both Gaudium and the Pillar in one go. He instructs Cid to set a course for the Sea of Japan. Going to the Sea of Japan brings back memories to Ai and Yu of their beloved home. They ask Cid to let them go to Sado Island for a few days to settle their nostalgia…
****
Complete Unlimited Guidance later.

(données recueillies sur le forum de Squareinsider.com)