What was your biggest take away from this video?

That a lot of things are remixed. And you can be sued for it.

If i had to sum up my reaction to the video in one word it would be intrigued

Disney

Am I surprised that disney reused animation. No not really because it's their own work and they are being smart not having to redo all that work

How to I think they do this? They use rotoscoping to trace the first one and copy it onto the new one.

How do I think the animator's of snow white would feel if they knew that the animator's of robin hood copied their work? They would ether think they are smart or that they are lazy.

Does the fact that they are hand drawn rather than computer make me feel any different? Yes. if it was combuta drawn then I would say they are being lazy but because it is hand drawn i say they are being smart.

Some of the dogs from lady and a tramp are seen in 101 dalmations do I think this is copying or is it just disney putting them in as easter eggs? I think it it's just easter eggs and not copying

The spot the similarity is the activity I had to do
