Personality

Tulip is a fairly quiet molly, though she isn't by any means shy. She just doesn't have much to say. She considers herself to be fairly plain and boring, and is okay with that. She'll leave the grand adventures and all that stuff to others who have more interesting lives and personalities than she does. Secretly, she longs for meaningful friendship and perhaps even love- she may not be anything special, but she would like to have someone who sees her as someone worth their time. She's actually fairly smart and very creative, but she falls apart under pressure.

History

Early Life

Tulip and her five siblings, Cardinal, Bunny, Meadow, Tree and Sapling, were born in the Frost Colony to Blobert with the help of a surrogate. With quite a few of her siblings being far more boisterous than she, Tulip fades more easily into the background, and she's happy there. She may be a wallflower, but she likes it that way. She just gets so nervous when she's the center of attention.

She grew up surrounded by others of a similar age. There were Bubble's kittens, Swirl, Ice and Glaze, though they were quite a bit older than her and didn't seem to give her the time of day, sometimes. At least Ice was nice to her, though she supposed the older molly kind of had to be considering the job she was being trained for.

Soon after, her cousins, Copper and Viper, were born. Tulip liked Viper well enough- they were both quiet, so they tended to just exist in each other's presence. Out of all of her family, though, Tulip was closest to her sister, Meadow. Sure, Meadow was off putting to most, but that worked fine for Tulip. It was nice to discuss news and the like with her, and she was much less overwhelming than Cardinal, Tree or Sapling.

Tulip's first experience with death came in the form of Six-Claws. Though she had never been all that close to him, it still shook her up to realize in a tangible way that one day, she and her family would all die too.

Then, one day, war broke out. Tulip would discuss all the new news about it with Meadow, and it was clear both had some apprehension about it. One day, the Web Colony invaded Fire Colony territory and took it over, forcing Fire Colony to stay with the Lake Colony. And then, that was that. Frost Colony kinda stayed out of it.

Adulthood

One day, they heard news that the fighting was over, and the Web Colony had been disbanded. Three of their old members, Sage, Tangle and Snail, decided to join the Frost Colony. Tulip decided that she wanted to give them the benefit of the doubt, even if she was still a little suspicious.
