Name: Joe

Age: 26

Business: Amazon FBA marketing (example)

Problem: Doesn't know how to start a business

Solution: A software that teaches them how to start a business

Joe is a millennial young man just starting his Amazon FBA business. He's always wanted to start his own business but doesn't know the exact steps to grow it, he needs a guru, a mentor, or something to guide him. Day after day he tries to create a website and tries to expand his business but he fails miserably because he isn't good at design or doesn't know how to code. He is in this state where he knows where he wants to be but doesn't have the tools to get there.

SL: One moment changed everything...

My heart was pounding, I felt the stress coursing through my blood like electricity, I'd never felt so scared in my life

"Please god, let this business make it."

And then something impossible happened...

I get a notification on my phone.

"Your product has been purchased".

A wave of relief washed over me like the warmth of the sun beamed directly inside of my soul.

Of all the years I'd been trying to start a business there was nothing that could help me, I was struggling financially trying to figure out a way to sell my products online.

I simply lacked the know-how and the skill to build a foundation that would launch my business to peaks never before seen and give me the luxurious life I'd always desired.

That's when I found Atmos, a program helping young entrepreneurs like you and me start our own businesses from scratch.

They provided me with the skills, connections, and support to build my own business.
