- Messi's World cup room turned into a mini museum

Lionel Messi and Cristiano Ronaldo are both nearing the end of their prolific careers; they are gradually shifting their attention to the film industry, raising eyebrows among football fans who wonder who Netflix will pay more for.

For many years, Lionel Messi and Cristiano Ronaldo have split the soccer world as to who is the G.O.A.T (Greatest Footballer of All Time). Aside from their athletic and football prowess, they have earned a lot of money both on and off the pitch.

Lionel Messi and Cristiano Ronaldo's careers have been intertwined for many years, spanning two decades. As they both face a gradual decline, it has become necessary to document their exceptional careers as films or animations.

Lionel Messi supposedly "completed football" by winning the FIFA WORLD CUP in 2022. This was the only trophy left in his cabinet as a soccer player. He has not been silent about what this trophy means to him and Argentina, and some critics think he is a bit overbearing.

Lionel Messi has no plans to slow down as he takes his celebrations further with a possible partnership with Netflix, which has over 190 shows you should watch.

This collaboration between Netflix and Lionel Messi will result in an animated series that tells his story, from his humble beginnings in Argentina to his rise to fame in Barcelona, and concludes with his most recent treasure, winning the FIFA World Cup.

Contrary to popular belief, this is Lionel Messi's third and, hopefully, not his final audiovisual production.

Back to the central question of the day: how much is Lionel Messi worth to Netflix? The streaming media company was willing to and went on to pay Cristiano Ronaldo's girlfriend, Georgina Rodriguez, ten million euros for sharing her life story.

Will Lionel Messi be paid more or less? If more, how much more should we expect? Here's everything we could learn about Lionel Messi's potential earnings from his Netflix animation series.

Lionel Messi's Netflix Animated Series Earnings

Many analysts and football fans believe Lionel Messi's worth in this deal has increased significantly due to his soul-lifting performance and ultimate victory in the recently concluded 2022 FIFA World Cup.

With Cristiano Ronaldo's girlfriend, Georgina, earning 10 million euros, Lionel Messi's contract with Netflix will be worth at least 15 million euros. However, some believe that's a small sum compared to the quality of content Lionel Messi will share.

According to the Infobae portal, the animated series will focus on Messi's childhood, growth hormone struggles, inspirations, and several incidents that shaped his life on and off the field. The highlight of this series will be Argentina's journey to the 2022 FIFA World Cup.

Rumour also has it that Lionel Messi has yet to decide whether he will play the main character's voice in his Netflix animated series. There is so much love for Messi today that fans cannot wait to see what Netflix has in store for them.

According to numerous media outlets and a tweet from the state-run Qatari news agency QNA, Qatar University will turn the room Lionel Messi stayed in during the FIFA world cup into a mini-museum. This action demonstrates how much football fans adore and worship the Argentine star.

What the world cup win meant to Messi cannot be overstated. Unlike the Argentine, who prefers to keep a low profile, he has been very vocal about his victory. He occasionally responds to critics by posting images of the World Cup trophy.

To summarize Messi's life and passion, he said on social media after winning the World Cup: "From Grandoli to the World Cup in Qatar, almost 30 years passed. It was almost three decades since the ball gave me many joys and some sadness. I always dreamed of being World Champion, and I never wanted to stop trying, even though I knew it might never happen."
