

Hi Nelson,

As a chess beginner, I've been thoroughly enjoying your videos. Your advice is refreshingly clear, and it's been remarkably easy to follow along. Your tactics & principles videos, in particular, have been game-changers for me - truly great stuff!

While exploring your content, I noticed your online courses and promptly signed up through your free video lesson prompts. The way signing up for a course automatically makes one a member is both clever and smooth.

However, as a Digital Strategist, I couldn't help but notice some areas where you could potentially increase your sales conversions. A few tweaks to your sales funnels and landing/sales page could optimize the user experience and drive more Conversions.

If you're open to it, I'd love to put together some free content or suggestions for your page. If my work aligns with your vision, I hope that this could be the start of an ongoing collaboration.

Regards,
Zacharia, Digital Strategist

Hi Robert,

As a beginner, I'm thoroughly enjoying your chess beginner-to-master series. Clear, systematic and easy to follow along to. I've just picked up chess and have been getting crushed lately, and your content is filling in a lot of missing gaps. Amazing to have such quality and quantity available for free.

While going through your content, I noticed your chess analysis service, which caught my attention. I can imagine such a service being incredible beneficial for someone like me to even advanced players.

However, as a Digital Strategist, I believe there's room to boost visibility and client conversion for your analysis service. It's an incredible rare service that could go incredible far with some specific marketing strategies. Along with some modifications to your current sales funnels I believe we could significantly enhance your online presence and sales conversions.

If you're open to it, I'd love to draft some free content or suggestions for your page. If my work aligns with your vision, I hope this could lead to us working together in the future.

Regards,
Zacharia, Digital Strategist

Hi Robert,
As a chess beginner, I'm finding immense value in your beginner-to-master series. Your content is clear, systematic, and incredibly easy to follow along with. Since I've just picked up chess, and truth be told, have been getting crushed lately, your insightful content is filling in numerous gaps in my understanding. It's truly remarkable to have access to such quality and quantity of information, all for free. While exploring your content, I noticed your chess analysis service. It immediately piqued my interest. I can imagine how incredibly helpful such a service could be, not just for a newcomer like me, but even for advanced players. Yet, as a Digital Strategist, I can't help but notice some room for improvement in terms of visibility and client conversion for your analysis service. It's such a unique and valuable service that could reach even greater heights with the right marketing strategies. I believe that with some enhancements to your current sales funnels, we could significantly boost your online presence and sales conversions. If this sounds interesting, I'd love to offer some free content or suggestions for your page. If my work aligns with your vision, I hope this could be the start of a collaborative journey between us.

Regards,
Zacharia, Digital Strategist