

BREE THE TREE

Once upon a time there was a tree called Bree who lived alone in a pot in a 3rd grade classroom of a bilingual school. The students loved Bree, they took care of her everyday a kid would water Bree the Tree.

Bree loved living in the class and she had a lot of fun seeing all the kids learning and helping each other. She loved Music class because she loved listening to music, she also enjoyed Sciences class, where she could see pictures of other plants and trees, like her. However, she felt lonely in her pot and she didn't like weekends and holidays because she had no company.

Bree the Tree wanted to be friends with other trees and plants, and since she couldn't do that, she told the students how she felt and that she wanted to keep growing but in a place where she would never be alone during weekend or holidays time and that she wanted to meet more plants like her.

All the students started working together in order to find a solution and solve Bree's problem. They finally decided that they needed to find a place where she would never be alone, and since Bree loved music, her new home would have to be surrounded by music. After a long time of thinking, they reached the conclusion that Bree's perfect new home would be a forest.

All the class made a field trip to a forest that was nearby. In that forest there were a lot of trees and birds who sang beautiful songs. The whole class made a great team work effort and planted Bree the Tree next to other really tall trees.

Now Bree the Tree is one of the many trees that form the forest and she is really happy with her new life, listening to the birds and talking to other plants, but the most important, never being alone. She also receives many visits from the students of the school and they all have a good time.
