

Hi Kelly

I think it's time to stretch your mind wider than a yoga instructor's leg attempting a pigeon pose! (Okay maybe, that's a stretch).

But, I was checking out your YouTube channel and I got to say, that video you made about not using credit cards for emergencies really got me thinking. I mean, who wants to pay over 20% interest, am I right?

I also noticed that you haven't been using the Curiosity Catalyst technique in your community posts.

It's a unique strategy that grabs your subscribers' attention by piquing their curiosity.

This strategy could help you get more sign-ups for your live masterclass on making $1000 in 90 days.

That is why I thought I would email you because I know a lot of content creators aren't aware of this technique which can give you an advantage.

I took some time and created an example of a YouTube community post that uses this technique, that fits with your channel's content

I've added extra notes to give you context. I would like to hear your feedback on this, let me know in your reply.