Strain Information – Benefits and Terpenes

Spritizer

This product is crafted from sun cultivated cannabis flower strains selected for their high quality and consistent plant characteristics. It is processed using a low-temperature extraction method designed to preserve the natural compounds of the plant, including cannabinoids, naturally occurring terpenes, and other minor beneficial plant compounds that contribute to its unique phytochemical fingerprint.

The final medicine is a full-spectrum strain specific cannabis extract with no artificial additives, flavouring agents, fats, waxes or lipids. The process focus is on remaining as close as possible to the natural composition of the plant within a controlled manufacturing process. The final medicine is prepared as a measured oral spray using MCT oil to allow accurate dosing and easy absorption. No artificial additives or flavouring agents are included beyond the carrier system. This formulation represents a controlled oral delivery platform, designed to provide more gradual absorption and extended duration compared to inhaled administration. Oromucosal delivery allows THC absorption through the buccal and sublingual mucosa, producing a slower onset with a flatter, more sustained effect profile.

It is designed to provide a consistent and controlled way of taking cannabis medicine in a simple spray format that can be used under the tongue or inside the cheek as directed by your prescriber.

Effects are generally described as balanced, with both mental and physical relaxation depending on dose. This delivery method may be suitable where precise dose titration, reduced peak intensity, or longer duration of effect is preferred compared to inhalation-based products.
