Your friends don't think you have a good taste

When your friends and family visit you they always just see a regular home, nothing special they sit down and see a boring room as everyone has your not something special in their eyes, they don't think you have a good taste you do not have any value in their eyes they don't see the value inside of you which could be seen quite easily

If you would know how we know it

One simple thing changed her value in the eyes of her friends

We once knew a girl that did well in life nice job and a comfortable home but when family and friends came over they always saw a regular normal girl nothing special at all but one day she made a decision she changed something in her living room where friends and family would sit and all of a sudden her friends and family asked for permission to go on toilette etc.

so what did she change?

she got herself a modern device that does nothing but spends light AND provides value a device everyone can get do you want to be perceived as valuable?

or as a regular person like everyone else you choose
