

CREATING HEALTHY BOUNDARIES IN LEADERSHIP

What are three specific actions I can take to demonstrate to those I lead that I care first about their soul?

Note: Attempt to find a way to communicate that you care in a way that is meaningful to them.

What are three specific truths that I need to communicate with individuals that I lead?

Note: This usually entails saying something to a person that you lead that will be difficult for them to hear, and possibly difficult for you to say.

What are three specific investments of time I can make to demonstrate to those I lead that I value their friendship?

Note: To avoid confusion, investments of "friendship" time should be granted only after layers one and two have been clearly established.
