

Author Guidelines - El-Tarbawi Journal (Follow the Article Template bellow)1. Manuscript Submission

Manuscripts may be written in Bahasa Indonesia and/or in one of the official languages of the United Nations, demonstrating a good command of academic writing and must be prepared in Microsoft Word format (RTF, DOC, or DOCX), then submitted through the Open Journal System (OJS) at the following link:

<https://journal.uui.ac.id/Tarbawi/about/submissions#onlineSubmissions>

2. Title

The title should contain between 5 and 13 words, be concise, informative, and clearly reflect the main focus and content of the article.

3. Author Information

Authors must provide their full name(s) without academic titles. Each author should include their institutional affiliation, city, country, and email address.

4. Abstract

The abstract must be written in both Bahasa Indonesia and English, presented as a single paragraph of 100–200 words. It should provide a concise overview of the research problem, purpose, methods, hypothesis (if applicable), key findings, and brief conclusions.

5. Keywords

Provide up to five (5) keywords, listed in strict alphabetical order (A–Z) and separated by commas. Use specific terms in American English spelling; prefer the singular form where appropriate. Capitalize proper nouns only, and avoid overly general terms or unnecessary repetition of words from the title (unless essential). Do not use nonstandard abbreviations unless widely recognized (e.g., STEM).

6. Manuscript Length and Structure

The manuscript should be between 5,000 and 8,000 words, including the title, abstract, and references. The article should be organized into four main sections:

- a. Introduction (20%)
- b. Methodology (10%)
- c. Results and Discussion (60%)
- d. Conclusion and References (10%)

7. Citations and References in Text

In-text citations must use the body note (author-date) format rather than footnotes. Examples:

- a. Single author: (Ali, 2021, p. 45)
- b. Two authors: (Ali & Imron, 2017)
- c. Multiple sources: (Ali, 2015; Imron, 2019; Laili, 2021)
- d. Book citation in text: (Abu, 2014, p. 88).

Direct quotations should be used sparingly. Authors are encouraged to use reference management software such as Mendeley or Zotero to ensure consistency and accuracy.

8. Reference List

The reference list must be arranged alphabetically and include the author's name, publication year, title, source (book/journal/proceedings/report/thesis), publisher, and place of publication. Authors are required to include at least 20 references, of which 80% should be journal articles (non-predatory) and 80% published within the last 10 years.

References should be managed using Zotero (APA 7th Edition) or Mendeley (APA 7th Edition).

INTRODUCTION

(Main section titles are written in UPPERCASE and bold; subsection titles are written in Bold and Italic, with Each Word Capitalized.)

El-Tarbawi is a scholarly journal that focuses on the exploration and academic study-both theoretical and empirical-of various issues and aspects of Islamic education. Manuscripts may be written in either Indonesian and/or in one of the official languages of the United Nations. Articles submitted to the editorial board must be original works and free from plagiarism. The overall similarity index of the manuscript must not exceed 20%.

Each article should be between 5,000 and 8,000 words, including the title, abstract, and references. Manuscripts should be prepared using Microsoft Word, with single line spacing, Times New Roman font (size 12)-except for the abstract (size 11)-and saved in .doc, .docx, or .rtf format (not in .pdf).

The body of the article should consist of four main sections: (1) Introduction (20%); (2) Research Method (10%); (3) Results and Discussion (60%); (4) Conclusion and References (10%)

The Introduction should comprise approximately 20% of the main body of the article, including the title, abstract, and keywords. This section should include: the background and rationale of the study, a discussion of the research problem or gap between the ideal and the actual conditions, a concise review of recent and relevant literature (theoretical framework, findings from the past ten years), the novelty or significance of the research as an academic or practical innovation, the research hypothesis (if applicable), and a clear statement of research objectives at the end of the section.

METHOD

(Main section titles are written in UPPERCASE and bold; subsection titles are written in Bold and Italic, with Each Word Capitalized.)

The Research Method section should occupy approximately 10% of the total manuscript length for qualitative studies, or up to 15% for quantitative studies. This section should be concise, clear, and comprehensive, describing the research approach, participants or subjects, procedures, tools, materials, and instruments used, as well as the techniques of data collection and analysis-without elaborating on theoretical discussions.

If necessary, appendices may include instrument blueprints or samples of research materials. Commonly used statistical formulas need not be restated. Any specific procedures or standards determined by the researcher for data collection and analysis should be explained clearly in this section.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

(Main section titles are written in UPPERCASE and bold; subsection titles are written in Bold and Italic, with Each Word Capitalized.)

The Results and Discussion section should comprise approximately 60% of the entire manuscript. This section presents descriptive statistics, assumption tests, and hypothesis testing results (for quantitative studies), or interview data, observations, and other qualitative findings (for qualitative studies), as well as critical literature reviews (for conceptual or theoretical analyses).

Data should be analyzed critically and presented in a logical and integrated manner. The organization of this section is flexible; a single subsection may contain multiple findings and discussions, depending on the complexity and scope of the study.

Tables, figures, and graphs should present processed, meaningful results-not raw data-and must be easy to interpret at a glance. Each table or figure must fit within one column or full-page width for readability and consistency during review. Table titles should appear above the table. Figure titles should appear below the figure. Graphs are considered figures. Tables should use horizontal lines only (no vertical borders).

Sub Section 1, Example of Table Formatting:

Table 1. Percentage Distribution of Article Sections

No.	Section	Percentage	Description
1	Abstract, Keywords, and Introduction	20%	If the total manuscript length is 5,000 words, the introduction should contain approximately 1,000 words.
2	Research Method	10–15%	10% for qualitative research; 15% for quantitative research.
3	Results and Discussion	60%	This section accounts for the largest portion of the article.
4	Conclusion and References	10%	This serves as a guideline rather than a strict rule.

Sub Section 2, Example of Figure Formatting:

The Results and Discussion section must relate the research findings to previous studies and current scholarly literature, employing a clearly defined analytical framework developed by the author(s). The discussion should provide substantive interpretation, offering meaningful insights into the results while comparing and contrasting them with prior findings from recent, relevant, and primary sources.

Comparative analysis should aim to highlight differences or innovations from earlier research, thereby establishing the study's contribution to the field. Authors are encouraged to emphasize new findings or theoretical insights to demonstrate the originality of the manuscript.

The discussion may include several subsections, depending on the number of findings analyzed. At least 80% of the references should come from primary sources such as peer-reviewed journal articles or conference proceedings, and the remaining 20% from secondary sources (books) published within the last ten years.

Reference management should use Zotero (APA 7th Edition, Full Note) or Mendeley (APA 7th Edition). In-text citation should follow the author-date (body note) format rather than footnotes. Examples: Single author: (Ali, 2021, p. 45) or Two authors: (Ali & Imron, 2017) or Multiple sources: (Ali, 2015; Imron, 2019; Laili, 2021) and Example from a book: (Abu, 2014, p. 88). Authors are advised to limit direct quotations and use reference management tools for citation consistency.

CONCLUSION

(Main section titles are written in UPPERCASE and bold.)

The Conclusion should directly answer the research questions and summarize the essential meanings and implications of the findings-not merely repeat data or descriptive results. It must synthesize the key insights derived from the Results and Discussion, written in narrative form rather than numbered points.

The conclusion should clearly address the research objectives, articulate the interpretive essence of the findings, and provide recommendations or contributions to the relevant academic or professional field, derived logically from the research results.

Here is the translated and proofread version of your El-Tarbawi Journal Template – References Section in Academic American English, refined to align with international reputable journal standards (APA/Turabian tone consistency, clear structure, and professional formatting):

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Acknowledgment is addressed to a person and / or groups and also the institution that helps research both in a direct and indirect way.

REFERENCES

The References must be listed in alphabetical order by the authors' last names. Every work cited in the text must appear in the reference list, and every item in the reference list must be cited in the manuscript. Authors are required to include a minimum of 20 references, with at least 80% drawn from scholarly journal articles (excluding predatory journals) and 80% published within the last ten years. It is strongly recommended to use reference management software, such as Zotero (APA 7th Edition) or Mendeley (APA 7th Edition), to ensure formatting consistency.

Notes for Authors

1. Ensure consistency in punctuation, italics, and capitalization throughout the reference list.
2. Journal titles should be written in italic title case (capitalize major words).
3. Do not include references that are not cited in the body of the manuscript.
4. Verify the accuracy of URLs and DOIs before submission.
