BACKSTORY

SENTRITSU TAIMIRA used to be an angel around the time Vulcanus was still a seraph, she met a demon and fell for him, who played her for a fool, only to brag to his 'friends' that she was nothing more than a toy to him. When she found out about his ruse, it was then she realized the mistake she had made.

After she discovered that it was a ruse, she returned to Celestia thinking that she would be forgiven for her actions, but she wasn't. Instead, Vulcanus lied to her and said that because she had let herself fall for a demon, she would have to become one of them and eventually threw her back down to the netherworld after turning her into a fallen angel

Upon finding her in her Netherworld, Sadako took her in before any other demons got ahold of her, considering how dangerous it is for angels, fallen or not, to exist in the Netherworld around other demons.

Will be edited or added to as I write her
